BRITAIN SPEEDS AIR DEFENCE PLANS

Six Firms Named To Build Engines For War Aircraft

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Six government-owned factories for the production of airplane engines for the Royal Air Force will shortly be erected, the air ministry announced today.

Firms which have undertaken the erection and management of the factories for the government are Austin Motor Co., Ltd., Bristol Aeroplane Co., Ltd., Daimler Co., Ltd., Rover Co., Ltd., Standard Cars, Ltd., and Rootes Securities, Ltd. The last-named controls the production of Humber, Sunbeam and Talbot Motors.

EMERGENCY ONLY

Under the air ministry scheme the plants will be built close to those of the managing firms and will be for use in emergency only. After a trial they will be closed down but will be held ready for immediate mass production in a crisis. Work on some of the factories was said to have already been begun.

The government's announcement evoked surprise in some quarters that none of the organizations created by Lord Nuffield, the former Sir William Morris and founder of the vast Morris Motors concern, were included in the list.

NUFFIELD WITHDRAWS

The air correspondent of the News Chronicle said that Wolsley Motors, Ltd., one of Lord Nuffield's companies, had withdrawn from the government scheme for a "shadow aircraft industry."

Lord Nuffield has also closed down the workshops of Wolsley Aero-Engines, Ltd., and cancelled an air ministry contract to supply several hundred engines, said the correspondent.

LAST CHANCE FOR ELECTORS ON VOTE LIST

Court of Revision Closes Tonight at 10 o'Clock—136 New Names

Wednesday night, October 21, is the last chance Edmonton electors will have to get their names on the 1936 civic voters' list for the municipal elections, the final session of the court of revision being held in the city assessor's department, main floor of the Civic Block, between the hours of 8 p.m. and 10 p.m.

Revising Officer A. Y. Blain will receive applications from persons eligible to vote, but whose names were not included in the original voters' list. All citizens who are British subjects, 21 years of age or over who have resided in Edmonton since December 31, 1935, are qualified to ballot in the November 12 elections.

Since the court opened, 136 new names have been added to the list through application to the revising officer.

Burgesses whose names have been missed in the list will receive their vote providing they obtain a certificate from City Assessor Thomas Walker to the effect that they are taxpayers, and are on the assessment roll. This certificate must be submitted to the deputy returning officer at the poll on election day.

FLIGHT MEDAL ARRIVES TEN YEARS LATE

Capt. Stevenson Dead a Long Time When Honor Bestowed

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—The Harmon trophy awarded posthumously to the late Captain Frederick Stevenson of Winnipeg was in possession of the aviator's parents today, nearly 10 years after the flier was killed in a plane crash near The Pas, Man.

The bronze medal, awarded by the Ligue Internationale des Aviateurs of Paris on behalf of the donor, Clifford B. Harmon, was presented to the flier's father, Joseph Stevenson, yesterday, by Lieutenant-Governor W. J. Tupper. The medal had been mislaid several years ago.

Hon. R. L. Ralston, former minister of national defence, paid tribute to Capt. Stevenson's courage. He rejoiced in being present "to pay homage to an intrepid airman who gave his life to the cause of Canadian air transportation development."

Col. Ralston believed no greater heroes had served Canada than the airmen who helped develop the north country.

Destructive Fire On Berengaria

SOUTHAMPTON, Oct. 21.—Fire damaged several cabins on B Deck of the Berengaria, lying at dock here today. Three fire tugs and dock and engine brigades put out the flames in half an hour.

FLYING PRIEST IN NEW PLANE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Rev Father Paul Schulte, six-foot-two-inch "flying missionary" of the Catholic church, arrived here today from Detroit with a new monoplane in which he expects this winter to range the more isolated sections of Canada and Alaska.

Father Schulte, pilot in the German army during the Great War, was accompanied here by Father J. J. Sammon of Buffalo, N.Y.

The priest said he would equip the plane with skis. He expects to, he said, so he could reach more persons in the north than by slower means of transportation.

TRANSPORT BIG MINING NEED

OTTAWA, Oct. 21—Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of mines and resources, is enthusiastic over the growing importance of mining in Canada's industrial picture. Just returned from a trip through Western Canada and visits to many mining areas Mr. Crerar said today mining was playing an important role in bringing about economic recovery in Canada.

One of the greatest needs of the mining areas was cheaper transportation, he said. Many enterprises were being carried on under the handicap of heavy transportation costs and greater progress could be made if cheaper tansportation were available.

ITALY AND GERMANY JOIN IN APPROVAL OF SPANISH FASCISTS; RUSSIA READY TO SHIP MUNITIONS; REBELS HALTED NEAR MADRID

Germans And Italy Menacing

ROME, Oct. 21.—Italy and Germany will recognize the insurgent government of Spain almost immediately after the Fascist armies occupy Madrid, well informed sources declared today.

Agreement on this policy was said to be one of four important issues on which the nations reached accord after first conversations of Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, with Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, Germany's foreign minister, in Berlin.

The other three were reported as their stands on the League of Nations, the Locarno treaty and central Europe.

Authoritative sources said Germany had agreed not to return to Geneva unless the League of Nations was reorganized on lines of the Italian plan for a directorate of the great powers and until article 16 of the League covenant, on sanctions, was stricken out.

Russia Plans To Ship Arms

NORTH MINING CASE NOW IN UPPER COURT

Tom Box and Sterling Collieries Sued Over Athabasca Claims

OTTAWA, Oct. 21.—Ownership of certain mining claims, known as the Anchor group at Beaver Lodge, Lake Athabasca, is the issue in an appeal heard by the Supreme Court of Canada on which judgment was reserved.

William S. McPhee and Elmore D. Poynter of Edmonton are seeking a declaration that the staking of the claims by Tom Box, also of Edmonton, is null and void. They sued Tom, Jean and Elizabeth Box, the Sterling Collieries Co., Ltd., who took a half interest in the claims and the Saskatchewan minister of natural resources.

Box and some others staked the claims in 1930 but they lapsed because the necessary assessment work was not done on them. In 1930 he restaked them but used the old posts and made a new inscription on them. McPhee also recorded the claims, knowing of the situation, applied to have his claims recorded but was refused by the mining recorder.

At the trial Mr. Justice McDonald held MacPhee had having a recorded claim had no status to bring the action and dismissed his suit. The court of appeal for Saskatchewan upheld this decision.

Selection Of Chief Justice Deferred

OTTAWA, Oct. 21. — Pending new trade arrangements with Germany were discussed again in cabinet council yesterday but no announcement was made. It was intimated the matter would be discussed again today.

Appointment of a new chief justice of the Alberta Supreme Court was also discussed yesterday, but no appointment was made. It will be necessary to name a successor to Chief Justice W. C. Simmons who is retiring, and the understanding is that one of the supreme court judges will be promoted.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Oct. 21.—Citizens blocked both front and rear entrances to a radio station here last night, hurled rotten eggs at Earl Browder, Communist candidate for president, and prevented him from entering the station to make a scheduled radio speech.

BERYL MARKHAM — JIM MOLLISON

Blonde Beryl Irks Aimee; Mollisons To Fly Solo Now

CHELSFIELD Eng., Oct. 21.—With a broken nose but a firm heart, Mrs. Amy Mollison announced today the famous "Flying Mollisons" will set solo marital courses hereafter.

She crashed her plane near here yesterday, wrecking the ship and fracturing her nose.

HEARS RUMORS

"I've heard rumors about Jim for the past month," she said, referring to her husband. "well, Jim is going his way and I am going mine, Herefater, I shall fly under my own name as Amy Johnson."

Amy's "forced landing" from domestic skyways left the status of two other members of the aerial triangle still up in the air — Jim Mollison and Mrs. Beryl Markham, the blonde woman-flyer who hopped the Atlantic solo from east to west and crashed in Nova Scotia, September 5.

Mrs. Markham described Mollison as a "very good friend." but British newspapers, at the time of the flight, hinted a more romantic attachment.

MILLION FUND TO FIGHT REDS

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, former associate of the late Senator Huey P. Long in a share-the-wealth movement, came back to New York today to announce formation of a new $1,000,000 anti-Communism organization but vigorously denied it was "Fascist."

"I am no more of a Fascist than Abraham Lincoln," he asserted, "but I am more of an American than the Roosevelts, the Dubinskys and the Tugwells."

Fugitive Falls In Hail Of Shots As Justice Triumphs

LAIRD, Sask., Oct. 21.—Cut down by police bullets as he prepared to fire at his pursuers, George White, fugitive from justice, was killed near here late yesterday. Posses had combed the area 70 miles south-west of Prince Albert all day for the man who wounded Constable J. E. Williams after locking the Royal Canadian Mounted Policeman in his cell.

Aided by trained police dogs, the posse trailed White to a straw stack on the outskirts of Laird. White broke from his hideout when Detective Sergt. E. J. DeRosiers and Constable T. E. Guthrie approached and reached for his gun when a bullet from a police gun crumpled him to the ground. He died before medical aid could be summoned.

HAD REVOLVER

Search for the fugitive ended not far from where Constable Williams early yesterday escaped death by the fraction of an inch. In company with Overseer G. D. Friesen the officer entered White's cell where he had been placed for questioning. The

Britain's Warships Rescuers

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Great Britain last night offered the use of her fleet to transport hostages from Spain.

The government sent messages to both the Madrid government and the insurgent high command requesting an early reply to the proposal. The messages expressed fear of "wholesale massacre" of hostages in Spain unless their safety was assured.

"To this end His Majesty's government would be ready to give their offices in any way which may be acceptable to both parties, and would gladly offer the services of the British navy in any case where transport by sea may be required," the messages read.

MANY WOMEN

"It has become a matter of common knowledge that in the course of the present troubles in Spain large numbers of hostages, especially women, have been taken and held.

"This applies more especially to the capital where so large a population is concentrated. There would appear to be the most serious reasons to fear that in the absence of sufficiently reliable means of ensuring safety for those persons, a situation might arise when they would be in danger of attack or of even wholesale massacre.

"In the face of such a possibility and the further terrible consequences which might ensue, His

Mrs. Pogmore, Charged As Accessory, Also Lodged In Local Cells

Mannel Ernest, farm hand, and Mrs. George Pogmore, widow of the man Ernest is alleged to have killed, are in custody at the R.C.M.P. guard room in Edmonton to await preliminary hearing.

Ernest is charged with murder and Mrs. Pogmore is charged as an accessory, the crown alleging that the couple, with her husband's former employee to bring about Pogmore's death.

CAME TUESDAY

They both had been arrested and taken to Stettler Monday night, they were brought to the city late Tuesday by car, under escort of Sergeant Ford of Camrose.

Ernest was arraigned before Magistrate Gray at Stettler Tuesday morning and charged with murder, following which the preliminary hearing was adjourned for eight days.

Mrs. Pogmore had the charge of being an accessory before the fact, which would make her equally culpable with the person who committed the crime, read to her in hospital at Stettler by the magistrate. Her hearing was also adjourned for eight days.

HYSTERICAL

Following her arrest, the woman became hysterical and was taken to the hospital but was recovered sufficiently to travel to Edmonton later on Tuesday.

Funeral will likely be held Thursday for George Pogmore and arrangements are being made but the body has not yet been released for burial by Dr. Cousineau, coroner.

Red Train Is Caught In Tunnel

ROBLEDO DE CHAVELA, Spain, Oct. 21.—Trapped in a mountain tunnel, a Socialist armored train was surrounded today by insurgents advancing on El Escorial.

Fascist troops tore up railroad tracks at both ends of the tunnel to imprison the train, consisting of a locomotive and an armored coach, under a Guadarrama mountain ridge.

VAIN DASH

The engineer of the train, which had attacked insurgent positions near Robledo with rifle and machine-gun fire, attempted a vain dash for safety.

At one end, the insurgents halted the locomotive by spreading the rails. The engine backed into the tunnel and chugged to the other end only to find its path blocked again—this time by Fascists with crowbars and dynamite.

The train finally retreated inside the tunnel while insurgents at both ends completed destruction of the roadbed.

Four Fascist columns, meanwhile, awaited the order to attack El Escorial, key to Madrid's northern defences and only 24 miles northwest of the capital.

MADRID, Oct. 21. — Socialist troops held the insurgents at bay today 26 miles from Madrid. The defenders, reinforced by civilian recruits rushed from the city,

GENEVA, Oct. 21—There would be no escape from payment of taxes even should the person assessed flee to the ends of the earth, under a recommendation made by the League of Nations fiscal committee last night.

Under the plan, companies in each of the nations party to the agreement would report every payment made to non-residents. This notice would be sent to the state wherein the recipient lived.

The committee urged as many nations as possible sign the agreement.

held their positions during an insurgent boarshrint and then launched counter-attacks.

The government defence line ran southeast from Illescas through Yeles, Esquivias and Sesena to the highway between Madrid and Aranjuez.

ATTACK HALTED

Advancing from positions near Torrejon De La Calzada, the Madrid troops attacked insurgent lines at Azana, Pantoja, La Almeda and Anover De Tajo on the Tagus river.

"So far we have succeeded in halting the rebel advance on Madrid," exulted Gen. Jose Asensio, Socialist commander.

General Asensio asserted recapture of Illescas, occupied by insurgents Sunday, was "imminent."

We will still hold strategic positions at Algodor and Castillejos (both important communications centres on the Tagus), he added.

100,000 Recruits Guarding Capital

MADRID, Oct. 21—The bloodiest battle in the history of the revolution now raging in Spain is just opening up. Today the government forces defending the capital were augmented by 100,000 militia recruits, men from the factories and the mines, sailors from the seaport wharves, workers all, and all in their teens, who have sworn to die fighting if necessary, but not to give up one inch of ground to the rebels.

Untrained, hardly knowing how to use the arms which have been hastily thrust into their eager hands, they are filled with superb enthusiasm. They marched to the trenches with songs and slogans hundreds of them have died with a shout and a smile, their reckless bravery making them easy targets for the trained revolutionary forces who are surrounding the city with a ring of steel.

ADMIRE BRAVERY

Foreign correspondents who have witnessed the fighting in front of Madrid so far are filled with admiration for the militiamen defenders. Individualists all, they are not easily amenable to military discipline, but even if they are driven out of the trenches they will hand to hand street fighting will be bitter, and it is here that the militiaman shines. They are vowed to make the fight bitter, to give up only when they see that they can fight again, to contest every inch of the ground outside the city, and then to continue fighting, street by street, and house by house if they are forced back.

Well armed with tanks, airplanes and artillery supplied by Germany and Italy, and with trained troops at their disposal, the revolutionists are gradually closing their ring around Madrid, but the faith of the defenders is great. They have no aircraft and tanks; their artillery is not equal to that of the revolutionists, but their courage is undaunted and Madrid will not fall immediately. Trained observers believe that the battle for the capital will last for weeks and that the losses on both sides will be terrific.

Lady Furness Introduced Mrs. Simpson To The King

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 21.—The vivacious American, photographed so often with King Edward VIII of England, may be "Wally" to her London friends and Mrs. Ernest Simpson to the world, but she is still "Wallis Warfield" in Baltimore.

Perhaps it is because the name of Warfield has been so long and prominently known here. There was Governor Edward Warfield, cousin of Mrs. Simpson's father. There was "Sol" Warfield, president of Seaboard Airline railroad and well-known Baltimore banker, who, when he died, a bachelor, in 1928, left his niece, Wallis, the income from a $15,000 trust fund for life, with the notation that "my niece has been educated by me and otherwise provided for by my mother and myself, in addition to the provision made herein."

WHAT THEY SAY

What are they saying of the famous Mrs. Simpson in Baltimore today?

"Oh, yes—Wallis Warfield!" a young woman, prominent in Baltimore society, exclaimed. "I did not see her that time she was here for the races in 1934. I wish I had. They say her husband's right handsome. Do you think he'll be knighted?"

Said a member of the family now occupying Mrs. Simpson's home at 212 Biddle St.: "I guess those Warfields had to struggle along just about the way we are now. Gosh, wouldn't it be funny if one of us should ever see a palace?"

Mrs. Simpson's closest relatives here—Henry M. Warfield, an uncle, and Mrs. Zachary Robert Lewis, a cousin—are among those who have no comments to make about their relative in London. They do not wish to be quoted.

GALA OCCASION

There is little doubt that when Wallis Warfield Spencer Simpson next visits her home town, her arrival will be greeted with a display of interest equal to, if not exceeding, that occasioned when Marie, Queen of Rumania, was entertained here a dozen or so years ago.

Although the Simpsons had entry to the most exclusive society in London, they always have lived with comparative simplicity and lack of display. Their Bryanston Court apartment was notable for its homelike atmosphere. The drawing room had apple green walls and ceiling, with curtains and carpet to match. There was a fire-place, shelves lined with books, plenty of easy chairs, a mirror over the mantle. The dining room was decorated in amber, a shade most becoming as a background for the dark-haired hostess.

It is told here that Mr. and Mrs. Simpson count many of their present friends through Lord and Lady Furness—in acquaintanceship that arose from the fact that Ernest Simpson, like Lord Furness, is engaged in shipping. Lady Furness is the former Thelma Morgan, beautiful twin sister of Mrs. Gloria Vanderbilt.

THE INTRODUCTION

It was Lady Furness who introduced Mr. and Mrs. Simpson to the Prince of Wales. Soon Mr. and Mrs. Simpson, with Lord and Lady Furness, were invited to spend a week-end at Fort Belvedere, the royal week-end house near London.

The prince delighted in Mrs. Simpson's conversation, which is so sprightly and intelligent, unlike as possible to that of Brit sh officialdom. He discovered that her dancing is supremely good, and he has always had a fondness for dancing. They even like the same one-steps—particularly "The Saint Louis Blues."

That first invitation to Fort Belvidere was followed by others, and presently the Simpsons were seen at the prince's table in fashionable restaurants in the West End of London. They were seen together at the parties, at night clubs, and in the royal box at Covent Garden.

DEFINITELY NUMBERED

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson became definitely numbered in the prince's circle of close friends—a list that was not long. Included were the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, Lord and Lady Louise Mountbatten, the widower Lord Dudley, the widow Lady Cunard, the Honorable and Mrs. Evelyn Fitzgerald, A. Duff Cooper and his wife, Lady Diana Cooper, and Mr. and Mrs. Simpson.

Since his accession to the throne, Edward VIII has maintained the same list of intimates. All are about the king's age. All are "middle-brows" instead of "high-brows," with the exception of Duff Cooper, minister of war in the British cabinet and recent biographer and defender of Lord Haig. Lord Louis Mountbatten is a kinsman of the king and Lady Mountbatten is one of the greatest heiresses in Britain. The Sutherlands have wealth and outstanding social eminence. So has Lord Dudley. Captain Fitzgerald, like Ernest Simpson, is a business man, comfortably well off, but not in the "big rich" class.

It was Mrs. Simpson's presence on the royal yacht, Nahlin, on King Edward's holiday cruise of the Adriatic that set the match to current talk about her association with the king. Particularly, it was the number of newspaper photographs showing His Majesty in informal sport attire and, almost invariably Mrs. Simpson nearby.

ERNEST ABSENT

Ernest Simpson, it was explained, was detained in London on important business. He was not present, either, when Mrs. Simpson recently was a guest at Balmoral Castle in Scotland. The Court Circular stated simply that: "Mrs. Ernest A. Simpson and Mr. and Mrs. Herman J. Rogers have arrived at the castle."

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers are Americans also. King Edward himself drove them to the castle, Mrs. Simpson on the front seat beside him.

Other guests at the castle were the king's brothers, the Duke of York and the Duke of Kent; the Duchess of York; the Duchess of Kent; the Duke and Duchess of Marlborough; the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland; the Duke and Duchess of Buccleuch and Queensberry, and the Earl and Countess of Roseberry.

Such a guest list makes it clear that Mrs. Simpson—the daughter of the Baltimore boarding house keeper who became a debutante and twice a bride—holds a place in

BISHOP PASSES THROUGH CITY

His Excellency, the Most Reverend M. M. Johnston, recently appointed Bishop of the newly created diocese of Nelson, B.C., was a visitor in the city for one hour and ten minutes early Wednesday morning, when he stopped over between trains, on his way through to Nelson to assume his new duties.

His Excellency, who at 37 is the youngest Bishop in Canada, had contracted a cold in his throat en route, and did not leave his car, the "Bonaventure," while in the city.

He was consecrated as Bishop in St. Michael's Cathedral in Toronto on September 29 by Archbishop McGuigan, formerly of Edmonton, assisted by Archbishop Kidd, now of London, and formerly of Calgary, and he will be installed at Nelson by Archbishop Duke of Vancouver on Thursday, October 22. His new diocese has an area of 45,000 square miles.

Arriving on the Continental from Winnipeg, his party included the Right Reverend H. Mazzoni, secretary to the apostolic delegation, the Right Reverend W. A. McCann, pastor of St. Francis church, Toronto; Father W. Kelly, of Merrilon, and Father J. P. Flanagan, St. Augustine's Seminary, Toronto, and Most Reverend G. Murray, Bishop of Saskatoon. They were met at the station by Monsignour Leo Nelligan and Father Joseph Malone of this city. The party left the city at 8 a.m. for the south, accompanied by Rev. Michael O'Neill, rector of St. Joseph's Seminary, and Rev. Father Robert Britten, editor of the Western Catholic, who will attend the installation rites.

OUSTED SOCRED MEMBER HERE

James Hansen, Social Credit member of the legislature for Taber, who was read out of the party by his constituency executive at a recent meeting is a city visitor.

Asked if his visit had any significance to the government, Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, who presided at the cabinet meeting on Wednesday, stated that he had not seen or communicated with Mr. Hansen.

Probability of his constituents launching recall proceedings has been mooted, but so far no such action has been taken against Mr. Hansen.

When police approached the body they found a 45 revolver close by, with one bullet fired and five chambers still loaded. This used bullet was apparently the one which "creased" Constable Williams as he searched White.

The prison cell at Laird into which White locked Constable Williams, Mayor Friesen and village Constable J. G. Wahl had never been used previously. It was learned that White fired the bullet at the policeman after locking him in the cell, firing through the prison bars. He then coolly walked out of the lockup and reached the straw stack without being seen.

Boy's Confession Of Murder Heard

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—The confession of Roland Monroe, 15-year-old schoolboy, that he killed Mrs. Agnes Ruffels, an aged and crippled widow, was admitted into evidence today in Monroe's trial on a charge of murder.

The red haired defendant, one of the youngest ever to face a murder charge in criminal court here, lolled in his chair as Prosecutor Richard Devine read the 20-page statement.

To confer with company officials here, James McCaig, Canadian Pacific Railway solicitor, Calgary, is a visitor in Edmonton.

sented as having taken a strong stand for rushing airplanes to the hard pressed Spanish government forces.

The Russian government, these sources said, has resolved not to yield another inch in delaying counter-measures against alleged violations of neutrality by Fascist powers.

(Russia has charged Italy, Germany and Portugal with sending assistance to Spanish insurgents. Soviet demands for immediate action to enforce the non-intervention accord signed by 27 nations have been refused by the international neutrality committee in London on the ground that the three nations must first be given opportunity to reply to the Russian charges.)

DRIFT TO WAR

Overnight, hundreds of thousands of bright-colored posters blazed up in the Russian capital.

"Hands off Spain!" they said.

While only the top men at the Kremlin know details of decisions taken by the government, enough information has seeped down to indicate Dictator Joseph Stalin Iesse Europe is rapidly drifting towards war—and the time to make Russia's voice felt is now.

WATCH NAZIS

Officials expressed belief all is to be gained and nothing lost by taking a strong stand against the Soviet's "natural" enemy—Germany.

For unless Great Britain and France can be aroused from what is regarded here as "lethargy," it is felt only a matter of time, not far distant, before Nazi troops will cross the Soviet border to realize the hope expressed in Chancellor Hitler's recent speech at Nuremberg these sources asserted.

MINISTER SHOT?

The Lisbon newspaper Dario Lisboa said today Spanish government deserters told officials at insurgent headquarters that Premier Francisco Largo Caballero shot and killed Indalecio Prieto, minister of air and navy.

The report, without confirmation, said the shooting occurred because Prieto insisted on the surrender of Madrid to the Spanish insurgents.

RECOGNIZE MADRID

MOSCOW, Oct. 21.—Russia will continue recognition of the present Spanish government, an authoritative spokesman said tonight, even if the seat of government should be transferred to Barcelona or if the president and other leaders should flee Spain.

The Kremlin does not believe the insurgents will win in Spain, this source said, even though the Fascist forces tonight were less than 20 miles from Madrid.

Following a cabinet meeting on Wednesday, Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, who presided at the meeting, declared that no action had been taken by the cabinet as a whole on the $1,250,000 six per cent maturing falling due on November 1.

The whole question is being investigated by Hon. Charles Cockroft, provincial treasurer, who will deal with the matter.

No comment was forthcoming from the government on Wednesday regarding a letter forwarded to Premier William Aberhart from the Weekly Newspapers Association, asking that in future he either refrain from launching a blanket attack on the press or specifically name those papers to which he took exception.

LARGE ISSUES BEFORE CHURCH SPEAKERS SAY

"Can a Rich Man be Saved?" is Question Asked Ministers of Gospel

Can a rich man be saved? Do you think a more equal distribution of God's gifts would be odious to Jesus? Is Jesus only interested in our souls and not in the welfare of our bodies?

These were three questions answered by Rev. G. A. McDonald, pastor of Knox United church, in the weekly radio broadcast, "Voice of the Church," delivered Tuesday night.

Rev. Canon Pierce Goulding, the second speaker on Tuesday's broadcast, dealt at length with social issues of the day and the attitude of the church toward the problems of the people in a changing world.

TEXT QUOTED

Answering the first question, Rev. McDonald quoted the text: "The things that are impossible with men are possible with God."

"I am no advocate of the rich man, and I fear he has fallen down lamentably in the present crisis. But he is not the only one who has done so," Rev. McDonald declared. "Ease and luxury are the gods of the poor as well as of the rich, and no man will enter the kingdom of God who is not willing to sacrifice himself and live the serious life. What we need today is not syrup but iron in our blood.

"Boon-doggling is not confined to the United States; it is in favor in Alberta."

Dealing with the second question: "Do you think a more equal distribution of God's gifts would be odious to Jesus?" Mr. McDonald said that Jesus placed little importance on worldly possessions in referring to His words: "Few things are needful." One of the greatest sins today was "high living and plain thinking," the speaker stated.

NEEDLESS QUESTION

Replying to the third question as to whether Jesus was interested in Man's soul but not his body, Rev. McDonald said: "This is a needless question, since Jesus both healed the bodies of men and fed them when they were hungry. Commenting on charity work undertaken to relieve the physical needs of those in distress, the minister claimed the church had been a leader in this work down through the ages.

"Apart from the relief which has now become a civic and national affair, the churches are the most generous givers, and among church people none are more generous than ministers of the gospel," Rev. McDonald continued.

Unique Advance In Radio Viewed At Current Show

Featuring models that record striking scientific advances, the Hudson's Bay company's annual fall radio show, one of the most notable displays of the season, will begin on Thursday at 9 a.m. on the fifth floor of the store, and continue Friday and Saturday. More than 100 of these new radios will be exhibited, and they may be inspected any day during the three-day show from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., the management announces.

The 1937 radio show is featuring the latest creations of five of the leading radio corporations in the world. Stewart-Warner, Marconi, Majestic, RCA, Victor and the Dictator, a set specially constructed for the store.

OF RARE BEAUTY

Never, say their sponsors, have there been sets comparable to these latest masterpieces of radio for the beauty and dignity of their appearance. Their sparkling walnut finish, unusual height, and intriguing designs all combine to make them captivating to even the most casual observer. Their tone is worthy of the lofty anticipations excited by the first glimpse of the machines. Rich in texture, vibrant and colorful, portraying the slightest inflection with perfect fidelity, and withal mellow and resonantly musical. The new copper photo-tone speakers are said to reproduce the music of any artist with amazing clarity over the entire musical range.

A significant innovation, and one which will be appreciated by all listeners, is the special arrangement of dials on the board enabling any station to be tuned in instantly, it is claimed, while the listener is standing upright. Stooping to dial, and peering narrowly for the station number, are things of the past so far as these 1937 radios are concerned.

Unusual eagerness of farmers and rural dwellers to exchange their present sets for the latest, perfected battery sets shown this year is reported. So faultless is the technical equipment in these machines, that experimentation is said to have proved conclusively that all-round perfect reception is obtainable throughout the year without greater cost than consists in operating other sets.

Some of the numerous advances in radio technique found in the various models displayed are:

1—A newly developed loud speaker, light and compact, to replace the old-fashioned permanent magnet speaker.

2—The new vibrator power converter unit replaces "B" and "C" batteries, and in conjunction with a single 6 volt storage battery supplies all the power needed to give the same faultless performance in the rural home as is obtained in the city by A.C. receivers.

WHILE SITTING

3—Perfected short-wave facilities which enable the listener to travel round-the-world while sitting in his armchair. Numerous patrons of the Hudson's Bay Company have tested this feature and succeeded in getting news flashes from Rome, London and Paris with surprising distinctness.

4—The use of a shadow beam tuner which instantly shows when the desired station is in proper resonance. As a result, quick, easy tuning becomes axiomatic in handling 1937 radios.

5—Avoidance of loose metal shields or cans and annoying rattling or buzzing of these parts.

6—Self-aligning design of new octal base, facilitating the insertion of tubes in sockets.

7—Full range variable tone control and controlled selectivity.

8—A built-in code rejection filter, satisfied customers to build this department. Our anticipations are that a record attendance will witness this year's show."

He added that a broadcast to mark the opening of the show has been arranged over station C.F.R.N. for Thursday morning.

"We are displaying so many lines this year," Mr. Telmer commented, "in order to satisfy all tastes. In addition, visitors to our exhibits will be assured of faithful service by a staff whose watchword is courtesy and whose constant ideal is satisfying the purchaser."

TO DEMONSTRATE

He stated that the company has arranged for free home demonstrations if so desired, and has guaranteed the effectiveness of every machine by placing the technical staff of the radio department at the service of every patron of the store.

Correct Milling Guess Will Bring Free Radio

A beautiful 1937 radio, one of the special models on display at the Hudson's Bay annual fall radio show, will be given away to the patron who guesses most closely the number of pounds of flour that can be obtained from a sheaf of wheat now on display in the show window of the store, I. Telmer, manager of the radio and appliance department, announced Tuesday.

"The sheaf will be hand-threshed by Doug Gaight, of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd., and the patron whose estimate was most accurate will be awarded a 1937 Marconi radio free", the manager explained.

STEADY GROWTH

"Our radio department has been called upon to handle a steadily expanding volume of business during the past year. We attribute this to our policy of allowing our

MAYNARD ASKS SUPPORT FOR MAYOR CLARKE

Clarke Given Good Reception at Social Credit Meeting Tuesday

Support of Edmonton's Social Credit forces was asked for Mayor J. A. Clarke in the forthcoming municipal campaign by Hon. Lucien Maynard at a meeting held Tuesday evening in the I. O. O. F. hall.

Making his appeal to party adherents to support the mayor, Mr. Maynard said: "There is no man in Alberta who has more honestly endeavored to co-operate with the government in implementing its promises, and I know of no man more worthy of your support."

ROUSING RECEPTION

Mayor Clarke, on arrival at the hall shortly after 10 o'clock, was given a rousing reception by the large audience.

Candidates for the aldermanic and school board vacancies running on the Social Credit ticket, also spoke briefly.

Hon. Mr. Maynard reviewed the history of finance leading up to the economic crash. Failure of financial interests to arrive at a solution of the problems confronting them led to distrust of the system and the demand from the people for a change in the monetary system. "Social Credit is designed to change this system and to give the people the benefits of production," he said. "The old system, when over-production occurred, laid off men and created unemployment. Under Social Credit, additional credit will be given the people to purchase and consume the over-production."

Defending the government's action in having a registration made before payment of dividends, Mr. Maynard stated it seemed to be foolish to give dividends to those who would not co-operate with the government in passing Alberta credit through the usual channels of commerce. It is not likely those opposed to us will pass that credit, he said. The registration will give us an indication of those opposed, as well as information necessary to the government to implement the scheme.

POSSIBILITY OVERLOOKED

He admitted the government had overlooked the possibility of financial interests seeking to upset recent debt reduction legislation, but added that whatever the result of actions through the courts the government would see that the legislation stands on the statute books. "The principle of the legislation is good," he said, "and the government will make the necessary amendments to meet any decisions made by the courts."

He expressed doubts that the Privy Council would find against the legislation as it is the expressed wish of the people of Alberta that it be enacted.

He appealed for support of all Social Credit candidates in the election, stating that only through a majority on the Aldermanic board could the proposals of the government be implemented in Edmonton.

CHAMBER DENOUNCED

Mayor Clarke denounced the attitude of the Chamber of Commerce in attacking the circulation of prosperity certificates in Edmonton. "In the coming election we will have to fight the financial interests through these bodies. They are marshalling their forces now, and a stiff fight is looming. It will need the vote of every Social Crediter to put their candidates over," he said.

Mayor Clarke promised co-operation with the policies of the provincial government if re-elected He said he was willing to face the courts to implement the principles of Social Credit.

He was critical of the attitude adopted by certain church ministers in their criticism of the government's policies. Calvary, the courts and the church have opposed the crucifixion fighting for the under-dog," he stated.

FIVE GREAT MODELS SHOWN

The various models on display at the Hudson's Bay Company's store, radio department, fifth floor, during the three day 1937 radio show are:

1. R. C. A. Victor farm radio, regarded by many as the symbol of quality the world over.

2. Majestic radio, mighty monarch of the air, for which uniform radio reception all the year round is claimed.

3. Stewart-Warner, custom-built for quality.

4. The Dictator, the pride of the Hudson's Bay Company.

5. Marconi, among the greatest names in radio, consistant worldwide reception.

FINANCE BODY CLEARS AGENDA

Two items of long-standing on the civic finance committee's agenda—overtime pay in the engineering department and debenture interests—were disposed of by the committee Tuesday at its last meeting before the elections.

Aldermen accepted the explanation that overtime wages had been necessary in the engineering department last spring due to extra water drainage work during the emergency created by flood conditions.

The question of debenture interest was struck off the agenda when it was explained that commissioners were negotiating with Toronto bondmen in an effort to obtain a reduction in bond interest rates.

Spain Is Not Red, Toronto Is Told

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—Senor Marcelino Domingo, leader of the Spanish Leftist Republican party, arrived in Toronto Tuesday and denied to a crowd that sang the "Internationale," that the government of Spain was Communist. He claimed the Spanish people did not want intervention in their domestic affairs but would like an opportunity to buy supplies from sympathetic nations.

England Leads

EVERTON, Eng., Oct. 21. — The English Football League had a 2-0 lead at half-time in its match with the Scottish League, being played here today before a crowd of 25,000 people.

EDUCATION TOO MECHANICAL, IN PREXY'S VIEW

REGINA, Oct. 21.—Plea that education be made less mechanical and soulless was voiced by Sidney Smith, president of Manitoba University last night at a dinner meeting of delegates to the biennial conference of the Canadian Educational Association.

The spirit of the reformation and the Renaissance was abroad today and it behooves educational men to examine the policies of education and what it was trying to accomplish.

He asked that a shift in emphasis from the curriculum to a consideration of the personality and character of the teachers and the children be made so that the Canadian system might follow the example of the British where registrantion had been reduced to the minimum.

Dr. H. F. Munro, superintendent of education for Nova Scotia, was elected president. G. F. McNally, deputy minister of education for Alberta, was elected vice president.

A nickel contains more copper than nickel.

Don't Aid Crash Victims, Doctors Urge Bystanders

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The innocent bystander who attempts to aid a person injured in an automobile or other accident was warned today by members of the American College of Surgeons that the best thing he can do is to do nothing.

Unless an injured person is in imminent danger of further injury he or she is best left exactly in the position and on the spot where injured until a physician or surgeon arrives, since attempts to aid generally result in complicating the injury, the surgeons declared.

The advice emanated from a symposium on fractures held as part of the 26th annual clinical congress being held this week.

Dr. Robert H. Kennedy, of New York, pointed out that from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 fractures occur annually in the United States and that in a large number of cases "helpful" attempts at first aid by persons vastly increased the injury.

PAIR DIE IN FASTER CHAIR

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Frank Korczykowski, 27, and Andrew Bogacki, 26, died last night in the new "faster" Cook county electric chair, as the slayers of a policeman who sought to capture them after a robbery.

The pair were the first to die in the county's "mechanized" electric chair, equipped with improvements which Warden Frank Sain said enabled guards to fasten condemned men in the seat in an average of eight seconds. Formerly the operation required more than a minute, he said.

LOUISE HAS ARMY OF RATS

LAKE LOUISE, Alta., Oct. 21.—An army of packrats today continued their invasion of the village here, growing so bold they entered house doors fearlessly whenever given the chance. For days the rats have been entering basements and residents have been unable to stop them.

The village of Lake Louise is on the railway line, about three miles from the lake itself. The invasion was heralded by some as portending a hard, cold, long winter.

BATTERED SHIP LOSES BO'SUN IN FIERCE GALE

MONTREAL, Oct. 21. — Her bosun was drowned and the second mate held to his bunk with a battered leg, the British steamer Kildale reached Montreal today after battling furious seas in a gale of Belle Isle Oct. 15.

The bosun, S. S. Gehring of Whitby, England, was swept overboard in the gale that struck the Kildale and several other ships some 200 miles off the eastern coast, and his companions, powerless to help, saw him bobbing in the rolling seas before he drowned.

Seamen told how their skipper, Captain A. J. Gale, put 16 stitches into the head of Able Seaman D. Thomas, injured during the blow.

Tuberculosis Rate High In Mine Area

GLACE BAY, N.S., Oct. 21.—The mortality rate from tuberculosis in the southern Cape Breton mining district is greater than in any other section of Canada, it was reported today in a survey by Dalhousie University.

STOP THE NONSENSE

Writing to Mayor Clarke on the subject of whether and why a reduction in bond-interest rates is needed, a representative of the Toronto bond-dealers' association delivers himself of this gem of profundity: "If conditions are the same as when the bonds were sold, then there is no need of an adjustment."

The correspondent evidently wants council to suppose he and those for whom he speaks have been asleep, dead, or travelling in a far country, during the last six years. That conditions may not now be what they were when it is represented to be a new and doubtful idea in that quarter.

The point of the letter is that if council has to start with the assumption that the bond-dealers know or nothing about what has happened in this interval, and prepare an appeal book on every elementary, primary and intermediate point they may see fit to raise, there is no prospect of any rate-reducing being done in time to show in next year's tax-bills.

The obvious fact is, the bond-men are only stalling for time, in hope that "something will turn up." Council should tell them it hasn't any time to waste teaching them what they already know, and that unless they get to business council will call upon the Provincial Government to proclaim the Act cutting bond-rates to a maximum of 3 per cent.

NO TAX OR NO LOANS

One condition of the new house-repair loan scheme is that a municipal council must not raise the assessment of a house because the owner has repaired or enlarged it by obtaining a loan from the bank. If any council does so, no more repair loans will be made in that municipality.

The council of Edmonton, or of any other city, town or rural municipality, thus has power to kill the scheme so far as concerns its community. If loans are to continue to be made in any municipality, improvements made under the scheme must not be taxed. This stipulation is clearly set out in the announcement given out at Ottawa.

But if improvements made with bank loans are not to be taxed, what about improvements which the owners pay for out of their own funds? Should these, presumably, be taxed if the loan-improvements are not to be taxed. Borrowed money is no more "sacred" than taxpayers' money, and cannot invest house-improvements with immunity denied to those which the owner pays for out of his savings.

If this scheme is to mean anything to Edmonton people, and there is no city in Canada where house-conditioning is more needed, council will have to tell the assessor to "lay off" house improvements, when he comes to revise the assessment roll. No improvements tax or no improvement loans; that is what the prohibitory clause in the new loan scheme amounts to.

THE FARM JOB SCHEME

The scheme to send single unemployed men to farms for the winter has not got away to a very good start in Alberta. The men do not show much enthusiasm for the plan, in cases have shown a very positive objection to it. Hon. Dr. Cross announces that of them who refuse to go to farms will be struck off relief; and adds that farmers do not seem more anxious to secure Government-paid hands than the men are to take the jobs. Mayor Davison of Calgary appealed for and got relief from the provincial authorities to prevent disorder in that city Monday. In Edmonton, emergency relief was given to a number of single men, pending action by the Government.

Five dollars a month, plus board, is not an attractive rate of pay, even with the possible addition of a $2.50 per month bonus for the man who sticks to the farm job until the end of March. And five dollars a month board money is no more attractive to a farmer who has a fair crop at present prices.

One disability of the scheme is that the farmer does not know who or what kind of a "hand" he would get if he applied for one and offered to take him into his home. No more does the prospective "hand" know what kind of a farmer or farm home he might be sent to. There is no mystery about the disinclination of both parties in these circumstances.

Tact, to an uncommon degree, will be required on the part of the administering officials if the plan is to be made to work well and on any wide scale, despite this disadvantage. It cannot in any event work to one hundred per cent. satisfaction. Threatening to cut men off relief unless they go blindly wherever they are told to go leaves something to be desired as a type of diplomacy.

NOTHING TO GAIN

Announcement is made from the Government buildings that the Ministers are to be canvassed, and the civil servants circularized, to find if they will take part of their salaries in "Prosperity bonds". With what possible object, or prospectively useful results, is not stated.

Scrip was introduced to distribute buying power where it was lacking. The Ministers and the Government employees are in receipt of regular and sufficient incomes, have no need of scrip, and would gain nothing by accepting certificates instead of cash.

Neither would the provincial treasury gain, nor business be stimulated. All that would happen would be that a dollar would be held back by the treasury from a salary-earner and replaced by a thirty-day I.O.U., which the treasury much buy back on presentation at the appointed time.

The Ministers and the civil servants would have no more to spend than they now have. The treasury would profit only by the sale of four cents' worth of stamps per scrip, the proceeds of which would be eaten up by the extra book-keeping. There would be no enlargement of the volume of buying power, no increase of store business, no husbanding of tax money with which to pay interest, bonds, or extra-provincial debt.

Nothing in fact would be accomplished by this attempt to infuse an appearance of vitality into the dead scrip—except an opportunity for the making of vocal "sound, signifying nothing". And even as a basis for oratory the device is too transparent to be useful. The obvious fact is scrip has fizzled out. The Ministers and civil servants cannot revive it by accepting and spending certificates instead of the cash they now get and spend.

From the Files of the Edmonton Bulletin

Capt. Favel made the trip from Fort Chipewyan to Edmonton this fall in twenty days. In going down last spring he was just ten days of travelling from Edmonton to Fort McMurray. By the Athabasca Portage route to Carlton the trip would have occupied twenty-five to thirty days each way.

F. M. Juneau, who arrived from the Haney mines on Thursday last, shows the first specimens of gold produced by ordinary methods.

Mgr. Grouard, of the Roman Catholic diocese of Mackenzie River, whose headquarters are at Providence, below the outlet of Great Slave Lake, is visiting Montreal for the benefit of his health. There are about 10,000 Indians in his diocese.

Geo. Philledeau has taken a claim at the Haney mines and is taking his family there. He intends to build a furnace to smelt the ore, believing that the silver can be extracted by a very simple process. Mr. Lacombe of St. Albert is going to experiment in the same way.

Gen. Strange has been refunded the amount deducted from his pension by the British government on account of the time spent during the summer of last year in command of the Alberta field force. It would be interesting to know at whose instigation the pension was at first withheld.

London: News has been received that Canadian immigrants to Brazil have been bitterly disappointed at conditions found there.

J. B. Tyrrell, of the dominion geological survey department, has returned from his fourteenth season of summer explorations in the north. In view of the prospective building of the Hudson Bay and Pacific Railroad his discoveries are interesting. From Norway House his party descended the Nelson river to the Pine river, which they ascended to Wolf river. All this territory has practically never been entered by white men. This large section is not a wilderness of rocks, but a well wooded country interspersed with stretches of prairie, a soil of rich clay loam with clay subsoil. There are large areas of rich cultivable lands west of the Nelson and also east of the Hudson Bay post. Produced in the garden of the Hudson's Bay post. There are just such stretches of country as may be seen from the banks of the Saskatchewan or the Assiniboine, land good for agriculture or stock raising and open for settlement," says Mr. Tyrrell, "that great country to the west of the Nelson river has been as richly blessed by Providence as the far-famed Red River valley."

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Britain's silent Navy has at last made an important announcement. Through Sir Samuel Hoare, the first lord of the Admiralty, it speaks on the long dispute of battleship versus aircraft. A sub-committee of the committee of imperial defence—all experts in their respective spheres —has unanimously recommended in favour of the capitol ship and against the substitution of bombing planes.

Tension a year ago in the Mediterranean over the Italo-Ethiopian clash, and the near risk of making that sea a cockpit for a war between seaplane and aircraft brought the issue close home. What experiments have been made, have not been disclosed, though the first lord said "When the country hears more of the question, there will be no two opinions among impartial people."

Previously, Lord Stanley, parliamentary secretary of the admiralty, told the House of Commons in moving an estimate of $2,500,000 for preliminary work on two battleships: "Our experiments lead us to believe that though damage may be done and individual ships may be put out of action by bombs from the air and below the surface, battleships will not be made impotent by air attack, and will remain supreme at sea."

Keels of the two battleships referred to may not be laid before Jan. 1, 1937, under treaty agreements, but it is understood they will be 35,000-ton super-dreadnoughts, designed to keep pace with Mussolini's two 35,560-ton battleships now building. The two British vessels will be veritable "tanks of the sea" and will cost the British taxpayer about $60,000,000. Two new 26,500-ton British battleships are now nearing completion.

Altogether, Britain is planning an expenditure of about four billion dollars on her navy, army and air fleets, to bring her fighting forces to the strength where she can protect others as well as herself, to paraphrase Sir Samuel's words.

It's one thing to favor peace in theory and another to stand idly by while the freedoms we treasure are being raided—as a certain lady delegate to the League against War and Fascism found when she visited the trenches in Spain and took a few pot shots at Franco's men.

Even from the standpoint of cost, when the mad dictators of Europe, hampered only by empty treasuries, are preparing to raid their neighbors, it is cheaper to spend money on armaments to give them pause than to risk prolonged war.

It cost the Allies $125,590,476,497 in direct costs, and a greater sum in indirect costs, to defeat the Central Powers when Austro-Germany moved against Serbia. It left an army of 9,900,771 dead in its trail.

Four billions is a lot of money and could bring a great deal of ease and progress to the forty millions of people in Great Britain, but it is a cheap insurance if it saves the world from another expenditure of 338 billions and saves the lives of 10 million men. In its narrowest expression, it will be worth it if it preserves British freedoms and securities in a war-torn world.

What ingenuity and mechanisms for peaceful delights and what these engines of destruction. Germany is said to have perfected a small lightweight submarine of revolutionary design.

Hitherto, submarines have had to be equipped with two sets of engines. Diesel engines drive them on the surface and charge huge electric batteries. They cannot drive them when submerged because Diesels use air in firing the charge in their combustion cylinders. Electric motors, taking their power from the storage batteries, drive the vessels when submerged.

The new engines, details of which are kept a close secret, are operated by hydrogen and oxygen, presumably carried in cylinders under enormous pressures. This enables the new craft to be driven by one engine whether on the surface or submerged, with corresponding reduction in the size of the vessel.

Britain is building a fleet of fast motor torpedo craft. With a length of only 35 feet they are driven by 1,000 horse-power at a speed of over 50 miles an hour. Motor-boat No. 2953 did 53 miles an hour in her trials a few days ago.

Lying low in the water like a grey flattened bullet when at rest, they plane with only 9 feet of the hull in the water at top speed, with the afterpart out of sight under the 15 foot high wall of water that shoots up at either side.

She could dash from one side of the English channel to the other in half an hour, making four trips backwards and forwards without refuelling. Her speed and marvellous ability to turn quickly is her only safety. There is not an ounce of armour plating on the mahogany and elm hull. If hit by a shell, the shell would go through the hull without exploding, though she would be difficult to hit at high speed either from the deck of a warship or from the air. She could literally jump over an enemy's defensive boom at a harbor entrance. She can travel 1000 miles under her own engine. In heavy seas her speed sends her skimming over the tops of waves.

A boat like this—several of which can be carried by a battleship—can lay smoke screens or hunt submarine with depth charges. She carries four machine guns to defend herself against snipers on river banks, but her main offensive power is in two torpedoes, nestling aft in tubes. She would rush at full speed towards the line of attack as if to ram the ship, loosing her torpedoes behind her, aimed at the ship. Racing ahead of the missiles she would veer out of their way, trusting to speed and concealment to return safely while the two torpedoes raced to their target.

It will take cool nerves and daring spirits to man these new "wooden walls of England," as in the days of Nelson.

"Unspoiling" Parents

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

Modern schools of psychology have brought out the statement that the "problem" child may be created by "problem" parents. Undoubtedly, the early training which the child receives from the parents has a tremendous effect in shaping behaviour patterns. Very often, when a child has been started in the wrong direction, the first step toward improving the actions of the child is to teach the parents to handle him in a different way. Frequently, the child becomes unspoiled when the parents learn enough about child training so that family antagonisms and conflicts are avoided.

Dr. F. McCoy

Children are very clever at finding out the best means of winning success in getting what they want. From the child's point of view, his method is successful in that it gets him what he desires. Frequently the child learns that the swiftest way to get his own way is by crying and when that is the case, the mother has a difficult problem. However, if she will take a determined stand and will stick by it for a few times, she can teach the child to drop that method and to try some other method.

One of the first steps in training a child away from an unpleasant type of behaviour is to first figure out just what he believes he is going to get by it. Sometimes, he is creating a disturbance because he wants attention; other times he is using it to get some sort of treat or toy; and occasionally, he falls back upon it simply because he is bored and because he has not been supplied with the right equipment which would give his energy a constructive outlet.

The child may adopt any sort of behaviour—he may refuse to eat his dinner, fight against having his face washed, or he may scream and lie down and kick his heels on the floor when asked to do something which he refuses to do. Face the situation calmly and seek to find out just what it is he is trying to get by these actions. That is the first thing to do. The second thing to do is to be sure you do not give it to him. If you give in, you merely encourage him to repeat his performance in the future.

For example, when the child cries for attention, the best method is to ignore him. Put on your hat and coat, drop what you are doing, and explain to him that you will be back when he stops yelling. Then walk out the door. The first two or three treatments of this kind are the hardest because the child will then and there begin to scream at the top of his lungs. He knows from experience that this is the quickest way to make you come running to him. If that does not work, he will try moaning very pitifully and calling your name. That is very difficult for a mother to withstand, as her natural impulse is to comfort the youngster. Eventually, he will stop crying altogether and when you return to the house, he will surprise you with his docility and sweetness. Incidentally, when you return, do not discuss the matter in any way. Let it be water which has run under the bridge and is forgotten.

Many times the child is not given a regular allowance and must beg or whine to obtain spending money. It is a good plan to start paying him for small services which he performs. In this way he has the pleasure of earning money by himself and as you yourself know, money which is earned by your own effort always means more than money which is handed to you. Make it a habit to pay the child as soon as the task is finished. Let him know that you are pleased with his work. That is an excellent system which may be used when you wish to have the child regard work in a pleasant light.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: A. L. B. writes: "I suffer from the most terrible nightmares when I am asleep. Sometimes they seem so realistic that I can hardly realize they were not true when I wake up. I know I am not in my right mind, but they can find nothing wrong with me. How can I cure this?"

ANSWER: If your doctors were unable to find any organic disease present it is probable that your nightmares are caused by some digestive disturbance. The presence of large quantities of gas or a heavy indigestible meal frequently produces nightmares such as you describe. The best policy is to eat very lightly in the evening and be sure that your other meals consist of the proper food combinations.

QUESTION: Mrs. K. L. S. writes: "Could a child of 12 have tuberculosis when he has a severe cough, night sweats, and is steadily losing weight?"

ANSWER: I suggest that the best plan is to have the child examined thoroughly within the immediate future. Whether a tubercular infection is present or not, the development of the cough and the night sweats indicate that the youngster needs attention.

Poems That Live

SCYTHE SONG

Mowers, weary and brown, and blithe,
What is the word methinks ye know,
Endless over-word that the Scythe
Sings to the blades of the grass below?
Scythes that swing in the grass and clover,
Something, still, they say as they pass;
What is the word that, over and over,
Sings the Scythe to the flowers and grass?

Hush, ah hush, the Scythes are saying,
Hush, and heed not, and fall asleep;
Hush, they say to the grasses swaying,
Hush, they sing to the clover deep!
Hush—'tis the lullaby Time is singing—
Hush, and heed not, for all things pass.
Hush, ah hush! and the Scythes are swinging
Over the clover, over the grass!

SIDE GLANCES—By George Clark

"He must not be home. He always gives me a quarter to go away."

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o—o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1872 the then German Emperor gave his decision as arbitrator in a dispute between Great Britain and the United States as to the ownership of the San Juan group of islands in the Haro channel off the coast of Vancouver Island. The award decided that "the boundary between the territories of Her Britannic Majesty and the United States should be drawn through the Haro channel. This gave the group of islands, some 200 in number, most of them very small, to the Americans.

In the old days the chief island had been an outpost of the Hudson's Bay Company and was still so, when Governor Douglas moved up from Fort Vancouver to the foot of Vancouver Island and founded Victoria in 1843. One day in 1859 a pig belonging to the H.B.C. rooted up the garden of an American squatter, who shot the animal. The H.B.C. at Victoria heard of it and sent a special messenger to San Juan is demand that the American pay $100 for having destroyed company property. He refused and told the envoy where to go, and immediately reported to the officer commanding at Fort Washington. That gentleman having nothing to do decided to teach the Britishers a lesson and sent a detachment of troops to San Juan, hoisted the flag and declared the islands American territory. Governor Douglas at Victoria retaliated by sending two British warships and soldiers, and it was a miracle that war did not follow; but luck intervened, Washington sent General Winfield Scott, who withdrew the U.S. soldiers pending agreement; and the incident was closed. But negotiations dragged on and it was not until 1871 that the state of Washington was negotiated in 1871 that it was agreed to arbitrate the matter and the Emperor of Germany was asked to settle the dispute, which he did, or rather some of his officials did for him, and his imperial majesty got the credit for having averted an Anglo-American war over a pig's depredations on a squatter's holdings on San Juan island.

Alberta's Credit Policy

By E. S. Woodward

The charge by Premier Aberhart against the citizens of Alberta that they have refused co-operation with the government in the matter of prosperity certificates which is reported in Canadian Press despatches is one to be hurled back into the premier's teeth. Both the government and the premier have refused co-operation from the beginning. Just prior to the first issue of scrip, Hon. Gordon Maynard publicly announced that cabinet ministers would accept 25 per cent. of their salaries in scrip as a guarantee of good faith. All his colleagues were ready to comply with the arrangement. Some of them were willing to accept more than 25 per cent. The premier alone amongst the cabinet members objected. He positively refused to co-operate by accepting as much as one dollar of it in payment of his salary. Whether he subsequently accepted any in change from merchants I cannot say. I can say that it was the premier who opposed Mr. Maynard's publicly announced plans.

GOVERNMENT NON-CO-OPERATION

It is also true that the government itself broke faith with the people of Alberta by dishonouring its platform pledges. Speaking in Lethbridge and Calgary in the month of June, the premier and Mr. Maynard gave most emphatic undertaking to the business men of Alberta that the scrip would be accepted for taxes and other government revenues. The occasion was an official conference with the Boards of Trade and the manufacturers' associations of those districts. The scrip plan was explained in detail by Mr. Maynard. He was subjected to close questioning on details of the plan. The premier was present. heard the explanations given, and himself gave precisely similar answers and pledges. For the sake of accuracy I give the following questions and answers:

QUESTION: Will the provincial government accept at any time taxable certificates in payment of services, taxes, and other provincial accounts?

ANSWER: Absolutely, yes!

QUESTION: As confidence and security are essentials in every curriculum of exchange and as the provincial members of the legislature and the legislative council are forced to have more confidence in the financial ability of the government to redeem the proposed certificates than the general public, is it the government's intention to pay the salaries of members of the legislative council and members of the legislative assembly in taxable certificates?

ANSWER: The first certificates which are issued by the government will be accepted by the cabinet members as part payment of their salaries. While I cannot vouch for all the members of the legislature, I feel sure that they will be willing to accept the certificates. We wish to prove to the people of this province that we have absolute faith in the system which we are starting. Many have already stated that they will accept them.

QUESTION: Where is the legal tender money coming from with which to redeem the certificates?

ANSWER: Funds for the redemption of certificates will be available as follows:

1. The $500,000 a month now being paid out for relief purposes.

2. From the sale of stamps which will be affixed to the certificates once a week.

3. Through the issue of scrip in part payment of ministers' and civil servants' salaries and for the payment in part of accounts for services rendered to the government. These salaries in scrip and accounts are paid in cash. That part paid in scrip instead of cash will allow the cash to be placed in a redemption fund instead. Redeemed scrip may be reissued instead of issuing new scrip.

QUESTION: We understand that Premier Aberhart has stated that "The government undertakes to redeem in legal tender such certificates as may be in the hands of wholesalers or manufacturers, such redemption to take place once a month and only to the extent that such holder is unable to use them within the province. How is the amount to be worked correctly and if so who and what determine the liability of a manufacturer or wholesaler to use the certificates?

ANSWER: If the wholesaler and manufacturer shows that he must have legal tender in order to carry on his difficulty in securing it. The government takes the lead. Ministers will take from twenty per cent. to twenty-five per cent. of their salaries in certificates.

QUESTION: Has the government commenced any negotiations with chartered banks to ascertain whether such banks can or will accept or deal in the stamp certificates?

ANSWER: We do not need the co-operation of the chartered banks. We are going to work this through a clearing house.

GOVERNMENT BREAKS FAITH

If the above official announcements of government policy, all of them iterated and reiterated at Calgary on the following day, be contrasted with the recent policies which have actually governed the stamp scrip experiment, it will be seen how completely the government has broken every one of its undertakings.

Hard Rock advanced 17 cents to 2.80 and McLeod Cockshutt hit 4.45 for a gain of 20 cents.

Little Long Lac added about 20 cents and Roche was a few cents higher.

San Antonio, McIntyre, Dome, Lake Shore, Sullivan, Preston Read Autnier, Powell-Rouyn and Toburn closed higher. Buffalo-Ankerite set a new high at 11½.

Noranda closed higher and Sherritt dropped a few cents. Falconbridge was steady to strong and Sudbury Basin was up a few cents. Silvers were heavy.

Toronto—Industrials

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—The Toronto Industrial share market worked along to a higher price level today on substantial volume.

Nine new highs for the year were boarded, among them Walkers common, Canada Cement, Abitibi pfd and Consolidated Bakeries.

International Nickel added about ¾ and the close was up for Consolidated Smelters, Brazilian, Imperial Oil, Pantepec and McColl common.

Prices were steady to strong for Canadian Car common, Dominion Steel and United Steel. Massey Harris pfd. and Cockshutt Plow closed on the up side.

Lake of the Woods responded to the dividend declaration with a rise of 1½, while higher prices were posted for the Maple Leaf issues. Western Canada Flour pfd. dropped back about a point.

At Montreal

MONTREAL, Oct. 21.—The stock market staged a creeping recovery today and managed to post a number of small advances.

Gains of as much as ¾ were recorded for Nickel, Noranda and Smelters. Hollinger was steady.

Late demand sent Canada Cement up around ¾ to a new peak of 11⅞. Gypsum and Dominion Bridge firmed narrowly.

National Steel Car rallied from an early loss at 26 to 26½, unchanged, while other rail equipments held steady. Brazilian gained ⅛.

Loss of ½ appeared for Howard Smith at 17 but slightly better than even prices ruled for Bathurst and Dryden.

At New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Motors and specialties led the stock market in a quiet recovery move today that pushed up some of the favorites 1 to 3 or more points, several to new five-year peaks.

While gains predominated at the close, steels, utilities and an assortment of recent leaders were inclined to hang back. Transfers were around 1,700,000 shares.

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 21—Mayor George Bennett and Ald. Mayor Bennett is a former president of the Street Railwaymen's union.

Guides Form Branch To Aid Sick Children

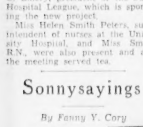

Lone and Extension Work Day of Guide Week, Tuesday, could have been marked by no more splendid way in Edmonton than by the formation of an Extension Branch of the Girl Guide Association for invalid children at the University Hospital. It was an informal "get-acquainted" meeting but nine new little members between the ages of eight and twelve years listened bright eyed and eager to some of the first principles of the great game of guiding as outlined simply by Mrs. Ronald White, their Brown Owl.

Mrs. J. Carter, Brown Owl for the Holy Trinity pack, who assisted Mrs. White, was present with Mrs. E. C. Pardoe, Provincial Commissioner of the Girl Guides, Mrs. S. H. Gandier, who was in charge of the affair, Mrs. Byron Morrison, extension secretary of the province, Mrs. I. F. Morrison, and Mrs. A. C. Emery, president of the Junior Hospital League, which is sponsoring the new project.

Miss Helen Smith Peters, superintendent of nurses at the University Hospital, and Miss Smiley, R.N. were also present and after the meeting served tea.

CAMPAIGN IS LAUNCHED FOR POPPY DAY

Pledging themselves to remember Armistice Day in a material way for the benefit of returned soldiers are the members of the Canadian Legion, who sponsor the Poppy Day fund, and in the past few years the women of several organizations have proven invaluable cohorts in the campaign.

On Wednesday afternoon a meeting was arranged in the Memorial Hall at which Mrs. John Michaels presided, when presidents of various women's organizations were present to make plans for Poppy Day. Mrs. O'Brien, of the Catholic Women's League, Mrs. Pakham, of the Ex-Service-women's club, Mrs. Ganser of the Council of Jewish Women, and Mrs. McKay of the War Widow's association, are members of the committee.

SISTERS FACE MISSION WORK HERE HAPPILY

As pioneer workers, imbued with the spirit which years ago brought their predecessors from their safe homes to dedicate their lives to service in the new land, the first sisters of the Anglican church to arrive in Edmonton have taken up residence at St. John's House, 11714 92 street. All from the convent of St. John the Divine in Toronto, Sister Isobel, Sister Lilias and Sister Aquila have gladly faced the west where they anticipate splendid work in their mission, in their contact with people in the country districts about the city.

Affording the large number of guests who called during the afternoon an opportunity to meet them, His Lordship the Right Rev. A. E. Burgett, Bishop of Edmonton, entertained at tea at See House in their honor on Tuesday afternoon.

Craftswoman Believes Home Arts Practical

TO ASSIST with the organization of a centre for the teaching of handicrafts in Edmonton in conjunction with an adult education institute to be set up in the Y.W.C.A. Mrs. W. E. Cook of Toronto arrived in Edmonton on Tuesday evening, accompanying her husband who is secretary for the recreational service of the National Board of the Y.M.C.A. in Toronto.

Mrs. Cook, who is skilled in home weaving and in the art of pewter work, will give demonstrations of many types of materials and patterns, the samples are evidence of the practicalness of home craft work, many of them were done on a hand loom.

The purpose of her work, said Mrs. Cook, is not only to teach people a new trade of monetary value but to provide a new source of creative entertainment in which the worker can find pride, and enjoyment.

NEW LOOMS

With her she has brought two new type looms that are portable and easily threaded. She will give demonstrations at these at the meetings Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook will leave for Eastern Canada on Wednesday evening but will return to Edmonton to attend a series of special sessions of the Adult Education Institute to be held in the Y.M.C.A. during the week of November 23. Edmonton will have the third institute centre to be established in the province, the other two to be at Lethbridge and Calgary.

the social round . . . . . .

YOU needn't bother coming home if you don't bring me a turtle." The words of a younger sister buzzed in our brain occasionally like an annoying little fly, all during our holidays—a turtle! Dashing down the street on the last day we passed a little Chinese shop. Children were gathered outside the window pressing their noses eagerly against the pane, and thankfully we remembered—turtles. We selected a specimen whose yellow-painted back bore the appellation, "Greta Garbo." The pretty little Chinese girl who served us, you see, had smiled engagingly and said: "Since you are just taking one, it had better be Greta Garbo—don't you agree, 'she wants to be alone.'" But you'd have to hear her say it.

"Turtle, box turtle food, and a" pamphlet of instructions . . . we began our journey. We were full of confidence in charge, and every shortly were people all around us. Everyone wanted to see the "dear little turtle" and giving it a drink everytime the train stopped became quite a ceremony—an unnecessary one we learn now, for turtles will live for seven days without either food or water. Any way it was still alive when we presented it to proud owner.—N. H. L.

Sincere regret at the departure of Dr. and Mrs. G. G. Stewart for the Pacific coast where they will reside in future, was expressed at a meeting of the Overseas Nurses' Association in the Macdonald hotel recently. Mrs. Stewart has been president of the association for six years and secretary for three and both she and her husband have worked tirelessly on behalf of the soldiers and nurses in the province. In token of their esteem and affection members made Mrs. Stewart the recipient of a silver tray engraved with the Canadian Army Medical Corps emblem, Mrs. Harold Orr making the presentation address.

The "off duty night" that nurses anticipate most keenly throughout the year is the occasion of their annual anniversary dinner which is arranged to take place at the Macdonald hotel on Tuesday, November 10.

Mrs. A. C. Rankin is convening the affair, assisted by Mrs. R. F. Nicholls and Mrs. Matt Berry. Decorations will be carried out in the colors and emblems of Poppy Day, and an appropriate program has been arranged.

For their meeting members, of whom 20 out of 27 were present, were the guests of Miss F. Munro, Mrs. John Turner, Mrs. J. B. McKay and Mrs. Robert Lee.

VIMY SCENES ARE PORTRAYED FOR SOLDIERS

Reliving scenes which are indelibly stamped on their memories, wounded soldiers in the Red Cross Hut adjacent to the University hospital listened with rapt attention to Lieutenant R. G. Mosher's tale of his visit to Vimy Ridge at the first program arranged for them last week. Each souvenir and snapshot had a special significance for Lieutenant Mosher's audience which could not have been more appreciative. On Tuesday evening this week Mrs. Gerald Rice arranged an amusing program of skits, recitations and musical numbers for the soldiers. Little Betty Rice sang and tap danced delightfully during the evening, and Miss Una Palmer, soprano, sang, and Mrs. James Scott played several violin selections.

How to Make a Splendid Cough Remedy at Home

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a 16 oz. bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you 16 ounces of really splendid medicine for half winter coughs. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

You four times as much cough remedy for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is a very effective, dependable, quick-acting cough remedy for the whole family. Quickly, you feel its penetrating effect in the air passages. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You'll be more than delighted with its quick effect in clearing up bad coughs.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine, in concentrated form, a well known and reliable soothing agent for winter coughs.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married a year and a half to a young man who has no vice except his devotion to business. He is in business with his father, owning a part interest himself. He goes to work at 5 a.m. and doesn't come in except for lunch and until 7 or 8 p.m. He takes a million steps a day. His work is in the hot sun and is plenty hard. However, he is healthy and strong, nice-looking and only 22 years old. I spend my days entirely by myself or talking to elderly people. I get lonesome and look forward to every minute with my husband, but when he gets home he is dead tired and all he wants to do is to crawl into bed. He is so wrapped up in his business that his whole life is centered in it. His idea of home is a place just to eat and sleep. I know that everything he does he is doing for me but I don't think money is the only thing in the world. What can one do with a man like this? Is it fair for a man to be so much of a husband that he can't be a good companion?

MRS. G. F. D.

Answer:

Everything goes by comparison. The tens of thousands of women who are married to lazy and shiftless men who spend their time lolling around the house, or in poolrooms, or swapping yarns and drinks with other loafers around bars, would think that a woman who had a husband who was as industrious and ambitious as yours was a favorite daughter of Lady Luck.

The tens of thousands of women who are married to men who have walked the streets until their feet were sore trying to find jobs, who have experienced the anxiety that eats the heart out wondering where the next meal was coming from; who have known hunger and heard their little children crying for bread they could not give them; who know the humiliation of living on the dole, would think that a woman who was married to a man who had his own business and who could keep her comfortable and safe should be down on her knees thanking God for her blessings instead of complaining because her husband works so hard he is too tired at nights to be a gay and interesting companion.

Still, of course, there is something to be said for your side of the case. A woman doesn't want a husband who has become nothing but a machine. She doesn't want one who gives his every thought to his business. She doesn't want one who exhausts himself so completely with his work that his home is merely a place for him to recuperate for his next day's labor. She wants her husband's society. She wants to know that she is more important to him than anything else in the world. She wants him to entertain and amuse her. And perhaps the man who fails to feed his wife spiritually fails in his duty to her just as much as if he failed to provide her with food.

Of course, the ideal husband is the one who steers the middle course and who divides his time between his work and companionship with his wife, who brings home the bacon with one hand and plays the ukulele with the other, so to speak. But, unfortunately, the demands of business and of domestic life frequently clash.

Many a man, and especially one who is running his own business or who follows a profession, cannot control his hours of work, nor proportion the thought and energy he must put in it. Sometimes he must put everything he has in it, must push it with every ounce of energy he possesses if he is to make it go. He cannot knock off at a critical time because his wife wants him to come home and play pingpong with her. He has to put her off for the buyer from Oshkosh.

The young doctor cannot refuse a call because his wife wants him to take her to the theatre. The young lawyer can't spend his evening chatting with his wife when he has an important brief to prepare. So the wives cry out that they are being neglected and that their husbands are wedded to their business. They fail to understand that their husbands' whole careers and their own prosperity depend upon them doing the work of which their wives are so jealous.

Any young wife who pities herself because she is married to a go-getter is certainly a trouble hound. DOROTHY DIX.

Lovely Eyes Unmarred By Disfiguring Lines

By GLADYS GLAD

A well-known globe-trotter recently was telling me the strange tale of a young lad in Europe who could see the stars even in the day time. This lad, it seems, was kidnapped in his infancy and kept imprisoned in a dark room for 18 years. He did not see the sun once during this entire time. But when he finally regained his freedom, his eyes were so abnormal that he could see the stars as well at noon as at night. And his eyes were considered remarkable for their depth and beauty, as well as for their extraordinary visional properties.

GLARE CAUSES SQUINTING

The summer's heat dries up the sensitive tissues about the eyes. The bright glare of the sun causes squinting. And squinting draws up the skin into a thousand creases and wrinkles. If the skin is supple and well-nourished, these lines will disappear when the face is in repose. But if the skin is dry and undernourished because of overexposure to sunshine, each time that you squint the lines will become more deeply etched, and will leave a most unattractive network of wrinkles about your eyes.

The delicate tissues in which the eyes are set, the sensitive muscles that surround them, must always be given careful attention. For no matter how bright and clear the eyes are, if they are surrounded by disfiguring wrinkles and crows' feet, they will look old and weary. If you have acquired such lines and wrinkles through overexposure to sunshine this past summer, the way to erase them is by improving the condition of the tissues themselves through daily nourishment. A good, rich cold cream or tissue cream is excellent for this purpose. Either type of cream may be applied several times a week, or if preferred, nightly before retiring. And the chosen cream should be permitted to remain on the delicate skin about the eyes overnight.

Manners Of The Moment

By JEAN LYON

He makes faces at his own reflection

A girl who admires her new hat every time she passes a mirror is bad enough. But a man who makes faces at himself in public places is ten times worse. He goes around baring his teeth before his own reflection, or scowling ferociously at weighing machines and chewing gum outfits. It's terrifying.

If you should ask us, it's really a perverted form of vanity. The men who do it—often very nice lads when seen in the spring—really have a strong desire to admire their own handsome profiles. But since

Mr. Brittain has continuously advocated an education and advertising campaign by the government to help increase markets within the Dominion for Canadian fish. If the national consumption of fish were to be increased by only ten pounds per capita it would mean approximately 100,000,000 ponds of fish

With the present crusade for the increased consumption of fish now appearing in the newspapers and magazines of the Dominion that goal seems to be drawing nearer. According to Mr. Brittain such an increase would add materially to the general welfare; it would benefit the transportation companies and affiliated industries; it would increase the revenue of the primary producer; and it would provide a real stimulus for the entire fishing industry.

Boiled Potatoes Win Praise Of Epicures

By MARY E. DAGUE

Bad cooking can humiliate a potato. But potatoes, themselves, need never be humble. They are the best food for families on low budgets. Together with milk, they can constitute a balanced meal if necessary. For thrift plus health, use potatoes once a day, together with one cooked vegetable and a salad. Meat and other things if the nervous dollar permits, but potatoes, vegetables and milk as the bountiful minimum.

BOILED SPUD TESTS CHEF

A boiled potato is the test of a chef. Wash the skins well, then place the unpeeled potatoes in a plan of cold water. Add a liberal amount of salt. Bring water to boil and continue boiling until potatoes are tender. Drain off water at once. That is the secret. Pour off the water while it is still boiling. Stand the drained potatoes over low fire until they dry. Then sprinkle with salt and shake gently. Stand without cover until ready to serve. A cover causes steam to accumulate and the steam will make the potatoes soggy. Dryness is the mark of aristocracy in a boiled potato. The salt helps to make them dry readily when the diner removes the skin.

ROYAL COLD POTATOES

Cold potatoes, boiled with their skins on, can assume a curtly destiny. Peel, then chop fine. Melt a little butter in saucepan, add 1 cup milk. Stir gently until milk is absorbed. Add more milk as necessary. Season with salt and pepper and a dash of paprika. Simmer for one-half hour, stirring occasionally. They should be slightly thick by then, not too moist, not too stiff. Turn into a shallow baking dish. Spread a layer (1-16 inch) of grated American cheese over the top. Dust with paprika, then place under low flame in oven until the cheese is melted and browned. The layer of cheese will be crisp and piquant, the creamed potatoes will be smooth and tempting. Potatoes, milk, butter, cheese—a low cost meal in itself.

he-men are not supposed to be vain, they can admire their own reflections by distorting them.

Point your chin to the next boy friend you have who is afflicted with the face-making habit. Bring him a mirror, and tell him to take a couple of good serious looks at himself without making one funny face, and get the desire worked out of his system. Tell him to be vain in private for five minutes every morning until he's quite sure that he is handsome. He'll probably quit making faces.—JEAN.

CANADIANS SHOULD EAT MORE FISH

Compared to the people of England, Canadians are poor fish eaters, in the opinion of Alfred H. Brittain, head of one of Canada's largest fish producing companies and former president of the Canadian Fisheries Association. Over in the Old Country the consumption of fish amounts to about 43 pounds per person. Here in the Dominion it is only about 21 pounds per capita. Yet, according to reports presented to the fishing industry, Canadian fish is noted the world over for its flavor and quality.

ALD. M. CRANG RETURNS FROM EUROPEAN TRIP

Denies She Took Pot Shots At Rebel Snipers While In Spain

Spain is merely the front line trench of a fight which will occur all over the world between democracy and fascism, in the opinion of Alderman Margaret Crang, LL.B., B.A.

Ald. M. Crang

Miss Crang returned to the city Wednesday after having attended the world peace conference at Brussels as delegate of the Edmonton branch of the League Against War and Fascism. She also made a tour of Spain, visiting the capital and the main rebellion battlefronts.

There were 4,000 delegates from 39 nations at the peace conference and it was an inspiring gathering, Canada's youngest councillor said. "It was the first attempt to draw together all the peace forces of the world and to direct peace sentiment in a single direction."

There is urgent need for a lifting of the blockade against arms for the government forces, if democracy is to hold its own against fascism, she says.

HARD ON TROOPS

"The reason for the great drive on Madrid now seems to be to take it before winter as the winter is hard on the Moorish troops, who have made all the important advances up to now," Miss Crang said. "When Madrid is taken, Hitler and Mussolini can say that General Franco is the recognized dictator of Spain and can openly pour in arms. Then it will be a fight against the whole German and Italian armies."

All the youth groups in Barcelona and Madrid are fighting on the side of the government and, among the adults, trade unionists, Communists, Socialists and even anarchists are united. Stating that the fight is practically a battle between youth and reactionary forces, she said that, in the navy, not one man above a midshipman stayed with the government.

DENIES REPORTS

She had not taken pot shots at rebel snipers, the youthful alderman said, when asked about reports that she had shouldered a rifle in the defence of the Spanish government, but had merely tried the feel of a gun, firing in the general direction of the rebel lines.

"I was at the Aragonnera front in the Guadarrama mountains," she said. "This front is 60 miles north of Madrid and guards the water supply for Madrid.

"We had dinner with General Galan, who is in charge and, as it was a quiet day, he took us up to a trench. The soldiers were showing us their rifles and, as I had never shot a gun before in my life, I asked if I might shoot one.

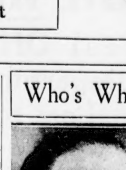

"I took the rifle and fired in the general direction of the mountain behind which the rebel forces were lying."

CODE ENDORSED BY CLEANERS

Reviewing a year of steady progress the Alberta Provincial Association of Cleaners and Dyers which convened at Calgary Monday went on record as endorsing the provincial code under which it has been operating for the past six months, according to H. P. Rocke, manager of Tuxedo Cleaning and Tip Top Works Ltd., who attended and was re-elected secretary of the association.

W. D. King, deputy minister of trade and industry, attended, and dealt with the Industrial Standards Act and Hours and Wages Act. The members thanked Mr. King for the part he had played in assisting them in the formulation and passage of the code now regulating their industry.

W. J. Thompson, Edmonton, was elected president of the association for the coming term. Other officers are, E. Levy, Calgary, first vice-president; W. Park, Lethbridge, second vice-president; H. P. Rocke, secretary; and an executive composed of T. Baines, Red Deer; D. D. Francoeur, Camrose, and T. Murray, Medicine Hat.

MAYOR SCORES OPPONENTS ON PARTY SUPPORT

Says He's Giving Government Co-Operation in Taxpayers' Interests

Challenging political opponents who criticized him for supporting the Aberhart government, Mayor Joseph A. Clarke, K.C., declared Wednesday that he was given the Social Credit party co-operation, because he believed it to be in the best interests of Edmonton homeowners and tax payers.

"If I'm giving the present government support it's because I believe it's deserved," he said. "I've always tried to show our senior government every courtesy and consideration as an elected body representative of the majority of the people, and senior to the civic administration.

COMMON GROUND

"As a matter of fact, I believe that I'm the only mayor of Edmonton who attempted to find common ground for the various factions in the provincial legislature as far as the city's interests were concerned. Before the Social Credit party was elected to power, I called a conference of Hon. J. F. Lymburn, attorney-general in the U.F.A. government, and D. M. Duggan, M.L.A., and Mr. Justice Howson, leaders of the Conservative and Liberal parties, respectively, at that time.

"This conference was arranged by me for the purpose of explaining to members of the former government Edmonton's financial problems. The party was harmonious and productive of good results as far as the city's interests were concerned.

INTEREST CUT

"It was at my request that Premier Aberhart brought down the act which would cut the interest on Edmonton debentures to three per cent. I asked for that because I believed then, and I still believe, that the city cannot go on paying the exorbitant interest rates it has been paying. People are being forced off their property because they cannot pay taxes, and my aim is to protect the Edmonton home-owner. I am still pressing for the proclamation of that act, which I believe is one reason why the financial interests and those representing them are opposing me in this campaign.

"There is also the reason that I tried to co-operate with the government in getting a work and wages program going for our unemployed by the use of prosperity certificates. I have no apologies to make on either score. I am for Edmonton and Edmonton's homeowners and taxpayers first, last, and all the time, and when I see Premier Aberhart and his government or any other government trying to do something for the harassed and overburdened taxpayers of Edmonton, they'll find me right in there with them and fighting alongside them. If that's a reason for opposing me, let them make the best of it."

Scottish Co-Op Ready To Trade Goods For Grain

That the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society is prepared to exchange manufactured goods for Alberta wheat if suitable financial arrangements can be made, was the statement made by Robert Murray, Glasgow, director of the society, who arrived in Edmonton Wednesday morning in the course of a tour of inspection of the society's elevator and land holdings in western Canada.

Accompanying Mr. Murray are R. W. Leckie, director and secretary of the company, Mrs. Leckie and D. Muir, chief wheat purchaser for the firm. All are resident in Glasgow.

Goods at production costs would be given in exchange for Alberta wheat, he said, adding that as the society was the largest individual customer for Canadian wheat there should be a reciprocal agreement easily of attainment, which would increase the flow of manufactured goods from Scotland. Only very small purchases are now made from Scotland, he said, although it is possible to supply a wide variety of articles at prices well in line with current prevailing rates.

CONDITIONS IMPROVE

Economic conditions in Scotland during the past two years have shown considerable improvement, this being reflected in the profits made by the society, stated Mr. Murray, although there are still some black spots in the picture. There is still considerable unemployment in the distressed areas, but efforts are being made to relieve this situation.

During 1935-36 the society had a business turnover of $68,000,000, an increase of $8,625,000 over the previous year. This will give some idea of the recovery which has taken place in Scotland, he added.

SYSTEM EXTENDED

Recent extension of the co-operative system in Scotland has been in the establishing of laundries, drug stores, optical and dental services. To curb the monopoly of the undertaking industry the society has established undertaking establishments in all the large centres. It is also erecting a lamp factory in the Glasgow area which will free the society from the lamp industry monopoly.

At present a building program amounting to approximately $6,000,000 is being undertaken by the society, he said.

The party will stop over in Edmonton for three days, and will then leave for Calgary enroute to the Pacific coast.

ROBERT J. DALEY

ROBERT DALEY DIES AT AGE 80

Robert J. Daley, 80, of 10014 103 street died at his home early Wednesday morning. Born at Stouffville, Ontario, Mr. Daley has been a resident of Alberta since 1906, spending the summers on his farm at Camrose, which is one of the largest in the province, and his winters at his home on 103 street. He was well known in both communities.

He was married to his present wife, then Lucinda Bently, on September 4, 1873, at Stouffville. It is just a little more than a month since the couple celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary.

On coming to Alberta, he settled on his farm at Camrose, and three years later became connected with the Alberta government in the immigration and colonization department, with which he served until 1920. Since then he has given all his attention to his farms in the Camrose and Bittern Lake district.

Besides his wife he is survived by one son, L. Russell Daley, of Edmonton and four daughters, Mrs. R. E. Kottmeier, of Edmonton, Mrs. C. M. Montgomery, of Winnipeg, Mrs. W. C. Taylor, of Toronto, and Mrs. O. G. Olstad, of Hines Creek. Another daughter, Mrs. W. H. Adams, of Toronto, predeceased him several years ago. There are also 14 grandchildren and one great-grandchild surviving.

Funeral services will be held on Thursday at 4 p.m. at Foster and McGarvey's chapel, and the body will then be frowarded to Stouffville for interment.

A. R. Kerr, president of the University of Alberta, presiding.

At this meeting the question of forming an Edmonton branch of the Alumni Federation of Toronto University will also be discussed.

Premier William Aberhart stated on Wednesday morning that the necessary order-in-council had not yet been signed.

It was learned in other quarters, however, that this is the date agreeable to the government and that the order will be signed within the next day or two.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

There is one question that has been worrying the people of the North American continent for many years. It is a question to which there has never been a satisfactory answer given, a question that has defied the research work of scientists, zoologists and biologists, as well as social service workers and churchmen.

Here is the question: "What kind of a noise annoys an oyster?"

And here are the answers received by the Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter:

OLIVER TOMKINS, law student: After due consideration of all sides of this question, and much research in my text on "Public Nuisances and Their Cure, in 22 easy lessons," I have come to the opinion a noisy noise annoys an oyster.

* * *

BETTY BRENENSTUHL, waitress in cafe patronized by Inquiring reporter: No, hungry reader, like the one you reporters make when I don't get around with the menu fast enough to suit you.

* * *

HUGHIE HUGHES, commerce student: Are you the Inquiring Reporter? You are? Gee, mister, will you put my name in the paper?

* * *

DOUG WALLACE, Med student: I can see you have all the symptoms. Are you just coming out, or going in?

* * *

DON WARES, rugby player and student: Well, for gosh sakes — I mean, goodness gracious, what is this?

* * *

LLOYD "BLYMIE" HUTTON, law student: There seems to be some doubt as to whether the oyster was ever annoyed, but I can see that he might be if he is ever visited by inquiring reporters when he is very, very busy ready to cash in case he should have read last week.

DICK SHILLINGTON, dentistry student: What do you care? I don't.

MARGARET ALDWINKLE, co-ed: You say the nicest things.

SEVERAL UNIDENTIFIED STUDENTS: "O.K., boys, drink 'em up; we have to lock up for the night. It's after time now."

Reporting an increase in general business of 15 per cent. over last year, and the most favorable indications for further trade advancement in 1937, M. K. Pike, Montreal, vice-president and general sales manager Northern Electric Co., Ltd., arrived in Edmonton Wednesday. He is accompanied by Martin F. Murphy, Toronto, vice - president Amalgamated Electric Co., and T. A. Clarke, Vancouver, Alberta and British Columbia representative of the Northern Electric.

Police Court

Convicted on charges of indecent assault upon a 10-year-old girl in his shack, north of Jasper avenue on 111 street on Friday, October 16, Jacob Niufeld, 56-year-old relief recipient was sentenced to six months imprisonment and fined a total of additional six months by Magistrate A. H. Gibson in police court Wednesday.

Following a stern lecture to the accused, the magistrate said: "This is one case where I regret that the limited sentence is so small. It is one of the most disgusting affairs I have had tried before me and you should be punished severely. A three-year sentence would be none too light."

David Benbow, local motorist was in a hurry so he drove his car a little faster than usual. Pleading guilty to speeding he was fined $15 and costs or 20 days in jail. He paid the fine.

Victims of the morality squad's drive against gaming houses in the city, T. R. Howe and Duncan S. Munro, charged as keepers of a gaming house at the Crocus club, 9637 Jasper avenue, pleaded guilty. They were assessed $25 and costs or 45 days.

Ten men playing in the club when the morality squad "walked in" were fined $2 without costs.

"I think I'll raise the ante in this case," said the magistrate before passing sentence. Others, some 80 in number, who have pleaded guilty to charges of being "found-in" a gaming house recently have been assessed $1 without costs.

Gambling paraphernalia and $55 in currency confiscated by police officers in the raid was produced in court as evidence.

Pete Wandler, local rooming house proprietor, "the man of many adjournments" did it again. He had charges of keeping liquor for sale on which he was convicted several months ago set over until November 7. It marked his seventh adjournment. Wandler has paid $70 of his $500 fine and requested that he be given until November 7 to pay the balance.

Reginald Fenner, young truck driver, whose fantastic tale caused police no little trouble and eventually led to his arrest on charges of attempted theft, was remanded until January for sentence. He must report weekly to the police.

Fenner told police that he was robbed of $137 by two men near the Latta bridge last July. Following an elaborate story, an investigation was made by local detectives and finally the money was found tucked away in the shoe of the accused.

Single Jobless Lodge Protest on Farm Relief Jobs

Protesting against the government making acceptance of farm relief jobs obligatory, or else being struck off the relief rolls, a delegation of single unemployed men interviewed Hon. Dr. W. W. Cross, minister of health and in charge of relief, and the Alberta Relief Commission on Tuesday.

Three members of the Single Unemployed Men's Association interviewed the minister, while a crowd estimated at between 300 and 350 straggled down to the government buildings and waited outside.

DISCUS PROBLEM

The men launched their first protest October 14 when a meeting was called "to discuss how to avert going to the farm at $5 a month and how to conduct a struggle in the city for $5.25 cash relief."

A delegation interviewed the relief Commission on Friday last and on Monday Dr. Cross announced that those who did not accept farm jobs when offered, would be struck off from relief rolls.

At the interview on Tuesday, which followed a meeting of the unemployed uptown, the men again protested.

URGED TO ACCEPT

Dr. Cross in reply, declared he thought all single men, who knew anything about agriculture, should accept these farm jobs. The government desired to do the best it could for the men and every consideration would be given those single men with good records and who knew nothing of farming activities.

An agreement had been contracted between the province and Dominion and the province had to abide by it. The Dominion, too, expected the agreement to be fulfilled, said the minister.

The plan was offered to the single unemployed, in response to their protests against work camps and the soup kitchen. By this plan, they could live in homes, receive $5 a month and a bonus of $2.50 a month if they remained on the farms until March 31, next, when the scheme is terminated.

The delegation declared that they would report to their followers.

Reports Of Uproar At Kitchen Denied

Emphatic denials were made Wednesday, regarding reports of the "alleged" protest uproar and demonstration in the government "community kitchen" at 99 street and 107 avenue, which was supposed to have been staged by the single unemployed Tuesday afternoon.

Informed of the report, officials of the community kitchen and other relief authorities, stated that they had no knowledge of any such disturbances. "Had there been any such demonstration we would have undoubtedly heard about it," said one official. "I can truthfully say that no report of that nature was turned in to our office."

Police also denied the report.

Judgment was reserved by His Honor Judge Crawford in District Court Tuesday in the action brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Grant, Edmonton, to recover $96.55 from Norman W. Innes for damages sustained in a motor accident on 109 street in July last.

MERCURY DIPS TO 8 ABOVE

Determined to see every citizen rubbing chilled ears and hastening to stock up on red flannels and overshoes, the frost kind laid it on a little thicker during the night, pounding the thermometer down to 8 degrees above zero at 7 a.m. to establish a new low reading for the season. The highest temperatures Tuesday was 28 above, registered at 3 p.m. By 9 a.m. Wednesday 15 above had been reached, and the forecast is again plain "cold." During the 24 hours prior to 9 a.m. a trifling .01 of an inch of snow had fallen on the city.

The near north is worse off than Edmonton, if that is any comfort, the lowest 8.30 a.m. reading in that region being an even zero at Calling River, while the highest reading was 22 above at Dawson Creek and Spirit River.

CALGARY, Oct. 21—Southern Alberta's coldest dip of the season was felt last night when mercury dropped from 44 to 10 above. The slump in temperature followed two days of light snowfall during which four inches fell, snow being heavier in the foothill districts.

CLARENCE CAMPBELL TO REFEREE MAJOR HOCKEY

LOOKING THEM OVER

By JACK KELLY

Edmonton and Western Canada Lose Hockey Power in Clarence Campbell—Correcting a Brief

WITH the announcement last night that Clarence Campbell has accepted a contract with the National Hockey League as a referee and would leave Saturday for Montreal, Edmonton and western Canada loses a dynamic and capable hockey power—a man who will be hard to replace. While it is his outstanding ability as a referee which has been confirmed by this N. H. L. appointment, his ability in organizing and administering is perhaps even greater, and it is this loss which will be most keenly felt by Edmonton and the west.

Clarence Campbell.

For several years now, Clarence's associates have known that it was only a matter of time until he was offered a satisfactory major league contract. He might have been working in the N. H. L. a couple of seasons ago if he had been willing to accept a contract whose terms were certainly not in proportion to the value of the services which he would render. The fact that Calder has finally given him the sort of agreement he wants is an added tribute to his ability.

No finer type of official could be chosen for the N. H. L. than Clarence Campbell. Hockey is not a part-time racket with him. It is a serious business to which he has given many years of honest and conscientious study. He has a high and rigid code of sportsmanship which is absolutely devoid of compromises—a thing which has led to the downfall of countless otherwise fine officials. Some referees make themselves pests and court trouble by being picayune and making mountains out of trivial details and technicalities. Others lose control of the game by going to the opposite extreme and checking nothing but an obvious attempt at murder or mayhem.

Level-Headed In Emergencies

BETWEEN these two extremes, Campbell has picked a course that leaves nothing to be desired. He keeps almost perfect control of the players and steps the game along at top speed by knowing the psychological moment at which to stop a play or mete out a penalty. He has an icy, logical temperament which keeps him level-headed in any emergency and out of any brawls which may develop. I have known Clarence from Varsity days, when he first forged to the front in student activities through the weight of his ability and personality. I have watched him handle the bell in countless games, junior, senior, professional and Dominion playoffs. There have been times when tempers flared high and hard words were spoken against him by men who regretted them when they cooled off.

But in all these years, I have never known him to make a deliberately bad decision. He called them as he saw them. His organizing and administrating at times may have seemed cold and rigid, but he took the course he did because he honestly believed it would be the best in the long run. More often than not time proved that he had made the right move. But, most important of all, he has the ability to forget squabbles that blow up.

There is one case that is hard to forget. Names will not be mentioned, since I know the incident has since been regretted by many of those concerned. During a game, Campbell was submitted to more than ordinary abuse by a certain team. At the end of play this abuse was carried into the dressing rooms. It was intolerable stuff of a kind that cut deeply since Campbell had repeatedly gone out of his way to assist this team with his organizing and promoting ability. A couple of nights later he refereed a game in which this team was fighting a crucial battle. If ever a man was justified in packing a grudge, Campbell was that man, yet a referee from the far end of Canada could not have been more impartial than he was that night.

Loss To C.A.H.A.

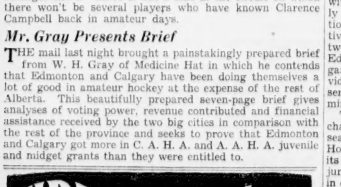

WHILE Edmonton will feel Clarence Campbell's loss most heavily, it will however be keenly felt in the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. In both of these bodies he has fought shoulder to shoulder with such able warriors as Dr. George Hardy for reforms that would make better hockey. He put years of effective work into the C. A. H. A. "four-point" platform that will be the storm centre at the coming annual meeting of the A. A. U. of C. To say that he will be missed when the battle gets under way at Regina is putting it mildly.

His opponents have fought him tooth and nail in these associations, but they will all readily admit that he is a capable fighter for whom they have wholesome respect. In fact, all of them would prefer to have Campbell with them instead of against them.

However, his many hockey associates throughout western Canada will all join in wishing him the best of all the breaks when he takes over this new job of riding herd on the livestock of the National Hockey League. He will be no stranger there. There is not a club in the circuit on which there won't be several players who have known Clarence Campbell back in amateur days.

Mr. Gray Presents Brief

THE mail last night brought a painstakingly prepared brief from W. H. Gray of Medicine Hat in which he contends that Edmonton and Calgary have been doing themselves a lot of good in amateur hockey at the expense of the rest of Alberta. This beautifully prepared seven-page brief gives analyses of voting power, revenue contributed and financial assistance received by the two big cities in comparison with the rest of the province and seeks to prove that Edmonton and Calgary got more in C. A. H. A. and A. A. H. A. juvenile and midget grants than they were entitled to.

SHENKER LETS GO ATTACK ON N.H.L. HEADS

Amerks' Business Boss In Verbal Mood — Shore Possible New Owner

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—Amidst a flock of rumors concerning future ownership of New York Americans and possibility of legal action by owner Bill Dwyer, Sr., to retain the team, Marty Shenker, business manager, yesterday loosed a verbal blast against the National hockey league.

Eddie Shore, all-star defenceman of Boston Bruins, Tim Dwyer, millionaire owner of Boston Red Sox of the American baseball league, various unnamed syndicates, Dan Topping, president of Brooklyn Dodgers pro football team and George Marshall, owner of Boston Redskins' pro grid squad, were names bandied about by newspapers and hockey followers as potential future owners of the National league's hapless Amerks.

Shenker charged the league had no right to assume the franchise of the Americans despite the club's financial indebtedness to it.

"If the league goes ahead with its plans to sell the team, we will fight the action in the courts," he said.

"The announcement of the league will make absolutely no difference in our plans," said Shenker. "The team is practising now and will continue to do so."

Shenker said the club management would take no action until the league actually tried to put the Americans on the ice. The star-spangled pucksters are scheduled to swing into action at Chicago Nov. 7.

Shenker frankly admitted the club was in debt, not only to the league but to other sources. It was known the N.H.L. advanced $10,000 to pay players' back-salaries last spring and unofficial estimates placed the total debt of the club at around $200,000.

"Yes, we are in debt, but we are not being pushed by any creditor except the league," Shenker added. "All the others have agreed to wait for their money until after the season opens."

Shenker admitted he believed the league could do what it liked with the franchise, transferred here from Hamilton, Ont., in 1925 to introduce big time hockey to New York, but he contended it did not have the right to bargain with the players. He said they were "employees of the club. They legally belong to us, not the league."

Louis May Box At King's Coronation

LONDON, Oct. 21.—Some important boxing matches in London during Coronation week next year are being planned by Syd Hulls, promoter.

Hulls, who is promoting the fight between Ben Foord and Walter Neusel on Nov. 18, has announced that it is "practically certain" that Joe Louis will meet the winner of the Foord-Neusel bout at the White City on either May 10 or May 17.

Jack Adams Plans To Use Amateurs

DETROIT, Oct. 21—Manager Jack Adams, of Detroit Red Wings, of the National Hockey league, plans to ask Michigan Amateur Athletic association authorities for permission to use amateur players in the annual professional three-game city series which starts here Sunday.

On the face of it, this brief appears convincing, but it will not hold water. Each of the cases which he cites as examples are the results of special circumstances that are on record in full detail with the Alberta association.

Mr. Gray's contention that Edmonton and Calgary control, or seek to control, the provincial hockey body is without foundation. He surely knows that the constitution provides for nine executives and that no more than two of these may come from Edmonton and two from Calgary. This automatically provides that the big city representatives will always be in a minority.

The brief also contains a charge that in the 1934-35 season the Edmonton District Hockey Association withdrew its junior teams from the jurisdiction of the A. A. H. A. in order to avoid paying playoff percentages. Mr. Gray is entirely wrong about this. The playoff of which he complains was a league playoff and not under the provincial body's jurisdiction. The usual two per cent of the net gate, however, was paid to the Alberta association and the audited statement for the series, along with the A. A. H. A. receipt for percentage, is at present in the Edmonton District Hockey Association's files here.

Fleet Footed Lion

Apparently floating about as though their football suits were inflated with helium gas, a quartet of the Detroit Tigers, National Professional Football League Champions, are seen above doing a little ground and lofty tumbling as they limber up in practice. Ernie Caddell (No. 1), hard-running back, demonstrates how he expects to float over the opposing line, while behind him, Left Tackle Steen (No. 23) sails into an imaginary tackler. The second picture is a close-up of the punishing palm with which Caddell straight-arms his gridiron foes.

COURT FAVORS DETROIT ARENA

DETROIT, Oct. 21—The Olympia Arena, home of Detroit Red Wings of the National hockey league, was freed yesterday of responsibility for injuries suffered by Mrs. Doris Geldart during a hockey game last February. The court found no cause for action and entered a directed verdict.

Mrs. Geldart was suing the Olympia and Captain Doug Young of the Wings for $10,000 each, alleging Young struck her in the face with a hockey stick during a game in the Arena. When the decision was announced, Mrs. Geldart, through her attorney, withdrew her suit against Young.

Judge Arthur Webster said no negligence was shown in the testimony and that Mrs. Geldart assumed her own risk in taking a seat near the railing. Frank Calder, N.H.L. president, arrived too late to testify for Young.

PLANNED HOOP LEAGUE BESET BY OBSTACLES

Lack of Floors, Coaches Hamper Formation of City Basketball

Much regret was expressed over seeming impossibility to secure enough suitable practice and playing floors, at a preliminary gathering of the coaches and players of the proposed city girls' basketball league held in the Separate school hall on 103 street last evening, and the committee instructed to seek further information and report later in the month.

Seven teams were reported as in at least partial formation, these being the Orange Crush, Seonas, King Edward, Centrals, Westmount, Eastwood and Highlands and others still seeking coaches. Decision was made to accept the offer of the Separate School Board and arrange for district teams to commence practice next week, with the west end and south side players meeting on Tuesday and the other districts on Thursday. It is hoped to complete further arrangements by the weeks following.

H. S. Allen presided over last night's gathering with Ed. Oldring acting as secretary.

A request for an exchange of games next month was read but decision was made to decline with thanks.

The league will consider further requests after organization has been completed, with the probable formation of two divisions, composed of senior and junior classifications. A. R. Lawrence was requested to continue the league publicity and seek coaches.

Local Official's Departure Heavy Loss to Amateurs

Frank Calder Confirms Appointment Of Edmonton Referee—Many Tributes Paid By Local Officials

By JACK DEAKIN

Clarence S. Campbell has taken his place among the finest of referees.

Gaining dominion-wide prominence by officiating at Allan Cup and Memorial Cup finals, Clarence received his most outstanding appointment Tuesday and will join the National Hockey League refereeing staff. His appointment was confirmed by Frank Calder, league president.

It was several months ago that rumors were "hot" that Campbell would officiate in major hockey during the 1936-37 season. First negotiations were made in the Royal York hotel, Toronto, where major hockey managers and Campbell met after the dominion junior finals. Big time hockey moguls had seen the simon pure finals, seeking youthful players.

PRAISED HIM HIGHLY

They saw possibilities in several young players, but they could not overlook Campbell's officiating. According to reports from the eastern city, league heads and club officials all praised his ability. Negotiations took form from then on, but it was not until some weeks ago that all parties settled the deal financially.

With his departure to monied ranks, the west will lose one of its most ardent workers for the amateur. Not only has Clarence been a clever organizer in amateur hockey, but he has the ability to keep the amateur waters untroubled and has many times rescued amateurism here.

With young and old he was a favorite. Even the youngest member of the Edmonton hockey fraternity sought his advice.

REFEREED MANY GAMES

His ability to referee a game and keep control during the contest was never doubted. He has refereed in several hundred contests, many of them being difficult ones to handle, but he was always in command.

The following are tributes from Edmonton officials, team managers and coaches:

Dr. W. G. Hardy, vice-president C.A.H.A.—"The departure of Clarence Campbell will mean a great loss to the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association in the administration of which Mr. Campbell was always prominent. Many of the most forward looking moves in Alberta and Canada's amateur hockey were initiated by him. At the meeting of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association last year he won the confidence of all the delegates with his clarity and logic and he was well on the way to making a name for himself in Canada's amateur hockey circles. As for his refereeing ability, in my opinion he is the best referee in Alberta amateur hockey and his choice by the C.A.H.A. officials to referee two Allan cup finals, one in Vancouver and one in Halifax, and one Memorial cup playoff in Toronto, shows that he had also achieved dominion-wide recognition. Without a shade of a doubt on these three occasions he refereed to the complete satisfaction of players, fans and C.A.H.A. officials. Of course we feel a little badly over

With Major Hockeyists In Training

OSHAWA, Ont., Oct. 21—Learning defensive tactics of the National Hockey league had taken second year the franchise of their club. New York Americans sent through another stiff workout here yesterday, paying little apparent attention to the change in the club's slated.

Manager Mervin "Red" Dutton did not comment on the effect the forfeiture of the franchise to the league would have on his plans for rebuilding the team through signing new players.

He said he had expected the franchise would change but up until last night had not been advised on definite policy for the season. The loss of Bailey Colville, Lionel Laughlin and Bill Oliver was one of the most prominent in season today, the two veterans showing considerable signs of approaching playing condition.

"Red" Doran, Al Murray and Allen Shields, the only three defencemen in camp, all looked good and if Johnny Gottselig makes the grade when he arrives, Dutton's defence worries should be almost over.

With the training advancing, the seasoned players are beginning to overshadow the amateurs, although Lesiwick, Barnes, Gregor and Burnett are still prominent.

JOHNSON REPORTS

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21.—Body-checking was a forbidden practice at the New York Ranger training camp but the National hockey leaguers will start reimposing today and the railbirds expect some action for apparently the players are in good condition for the early season.

Arrival of defencemen Chinn Johnson completed Manager Lester Patrick's player roster. The burly Johnson showed bursts of speed in his first time on skates this season but afterwards he exclaimed, "Tired! Tired!"

Steve Nickarz, Winnipeg youngster who played formerly with Edmonton Eskimos of the Northwestern Professional League, turned out with Rangers' farm team, Philadelphia Ramblers of the International-American League. Nickarz arrival brought Ramblers present strength to 18 players.

MAROONS VARY

MONTREAL, Oct. 21—Montreal Maroons varied their training today for the National Hockey League battles with a softball game Tuesday.

Sid Craddock, defence man from Saskatchewan reached town about noon and hurried out to the baseball field where Cy Wentworth was acting as catcher and captain of the "East" team.

Gerald Carson took the batting honors with Russ Blineo and Bob Gracie shaping up well in the field.

LEAFS ARE WEARY

GALT, Oct. 21—Toronto Maple Leafs and Syracuse Stars dragged themselves off to bed last night, a few pounds lighter at least than when they came for their first taste of training-camp life.

Up at seven o'clock Tuesday morning, the hockeyists—32 in all—were in Riverside Park, Preston, a few minutes after eight taking "P.T." under the direction of Regimental Sergt. Major A. Hulfield, of the Highland Light Infantry of Canada.

After an hour's drill, most of the players picked up their golf clubs and spent the remainder of the forenoon on the local links.

In the afternoon the squad took the ice at Sport Park arena and after a brief session of skating and shooting, Coaches Dick Irvin and Eddie Powers selected teams for a practice game.

DETROIT, Oct. 21—Jack Adams, manager of Detroit Red Wings, of the National Hockey league, announced last night he was conferring with directors of Windsor Bulldogs for the services of Goalkeeper Earl Robertson, former Edmonton man, who guarded the nets for the Windsor team last winter in the International league.

They are not operating this season Robertson appeared in the Detroit nets at practice, along with the regular goalie, Normie Smith, and two other candidates, Jimmie Franks and Hal Mitchell.

At least one of them will go to Pittsburgh Hornets of the new International-American league.

Injuries Wash Out Lethbridge Game

Owing to injuries making it impossible for Lethbridge to field a team, the Alberta Union football game scheduled for today between the University of Alberta's Golden Bears and Lethbridge, at Lethbridge, has been washed out. The Golden Bears are already in the provincial final and lose nothing by not playing the game.

Chess Tourney

AMSTERDAM, Oct. 21—Reuben Fine of New York and Dr. Max Euwe of Amsterdam tied for first place in the International Chess Masters' tournament completed yesterday. Both scored 5-2.

Dr. Alexander Alekhine of Paris, ex-world champion, finished in third place with 4½-2½.

Jacobs Sees Big Pelf In Balsamo

Middleweight Sensation is Bound By Contract

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—Mike Jacobs, who made a fortune with Joe Louis's gaming ready to reap another harvest of gold with the good right hand of young Harry Balsamo, the new middleweight sensation.

Since the former subway brakeman deftly polished off Eric Seelig with a startling one-round knockout last week to place himself definitely on the list of title contenders, offers for his services have poured in from every direction.

Even the Far West, where Freddie Steele, ruler of the 160-pound division, makes headquarters, is bidding for a glimpse of the lad whose hitting power is compared to that of the Brown Bomber, weights considered.

Jacobs, who tied Louis to a long term contract, announced the negro showed signs of developing into a box office attraction, has done the same with Balsamo.

For the next five years the Italian will do all his fighting for Jacobs. Balsamo is now training at the two New York business men, but will be up in the air during the 20th Century Sporting club to say when, where and whom the youngster fights.

Balsamo will go to the post in the New York Hippodrome Oct. 28, against Steve Belloise, former middleweight champion. After that he will be booked for headline fights in Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago are some of the places where Jacobs expects to show his new meal ticket.

Ray Tops Western Football Scorers

Reginan Leads With 20 Points—'Pegs Next

WINNIPEG, Oct. 21—Fred Ray, Regina Roughriders, great plunging halfback, topped all western Canada conference scorers with 20 points. The former University of South Dakota fullback scored four touchdowns in Regina's six conference games this season.

Wing pegs, Canadian champions, played two more games than either Regina or Calgary and Blue Bombers captured the next five scoring places with captain Russ Rebholz in second position with 18 points. The versatile halfbacks scored two touchdowns, kicked a field goal, converted three touchdowns and kicked three single points.

Greg Kabat bagged two field goals, scored a touchdown and kicked four converts and two singles for 17 points. Rebholz missed three games due to injuries and illness.

Jeff Nicklin, starry Peg end, took fourth place with 18 points while playing coach Bob Fritz and elusive Fritz Hanson nad 15 each, all on touchdowns.

Big Charlie Harrison, Calgary kicking ace, led the Brenks with 11 points, comprising a touchdown and six singles. Paul Kirk was a big figure in Regina scoring with 13 points, two field goals, a touchdown and two converts.

The team, known as the "Polar Bears" is composed of the pick of the Fairbanks and Dawson packs, chargie.

University, Marquette University and the University of Washington at Seattle.

The team will travel by airplane.

MORE ABOUT CAMPBELL

his departure and I myself more so because I will be losing a co-worker and a personal friend, but however wish him all the luck possible in his new venture with the knowledge that he is fully qualified to assume his new duties."

Bill Harris, Vice-President of the EDHA and governor of the junior division—"Edmonton, the Alberta Amateur Hockey Association and amateur hockey ranks throughout the west will take its heaviest loss in years with the departure of Clarence Campbell to 'big time' hockey," stated W. C. "Bill" Harris in commenting on Mr. Campbell's National hockey appointment. "For many years he has been an outstanding figure in the promotion and welfare of amateur hockey in Alberta. His ability to organize, his diplomacy in handling whatever difficulties arose within or outside of amateur ranks has been of great importance to all connected in amateur hockey. I also feel I will be losing a personal friend after so many years in working with him while pushing the affairs of amateur hockey here."

Ira Stuart, (Manager of Edmonton Superiors)—"Clarence Campbell's departure from Edmonton to referee major hockey will mean a severe blow to amateur hockey here," stated Ira Stuart in commenting upon the report that the Edmonton official would leave shortly for eastern ice circles. "While the arguments between Clarence and myself have been many, I have always found him a remarkably fine fellow, and one who could forget bitter words of yesterday. While I regret his departure, I am sure his ability will see him through in the major ranks and wish him the best of success."

Bill Ruff, (Manager of Canadian Legion)—"He says the time has come to take the ice in there parts, and that fact is emphasized not only by his performance here but also because he has been chosen repeatedly to referee junior and senior amateur finals. To Clarence Campbell, both on the ice and as a worker for the welfare of amateur hockey, will be a task hard to accomplish, but while his departure is deeply felt and regretted, I wish him the finest of success in the majors."

Lowell "Lefty" Grove, (Coach of senior Dominion and junior Canadians)—"The flashing white-sweatered form of Clarence Campbell always had the game thoroughly under control, and having the intestinal fortitude to back up his convictions made him the finest hockey official in western Canada," stated Lefty Grove who has played in many games in which Campbell officiated. "His departure will also be a heavy loss to the powers behind the hockey scene, and I for one have had the pleasure of being a close friend, know his great value here."

To Visit Duke

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 21—Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark, accompanied by Princess Ingrid, his wife, are en route to Great Britain to visit the Duke of Connaught, who is the Princess' grandfather.

Following his request as well as those of many local fans, Otis Clingman has been given another match with Mariusio Angelo in the main event of Mike Cutcher's card at the Memorial hall Friday.

This will mean glad tidings to Clingman who was anxious to meet the burly Italian again after his unexpected defeat here a few weeks ago. These two matmen are extremely well matched, tipping the scales at the same weight. Clingman for a long time has been considered the pick of those wrestlers not only who have appeared here but throughout the Western States across the line. Determined to avenge himself he'll probably give Angelo an even hotter session than in their last meeting.

An old-timer will be back in the semi-windup in the person of Jack Eku, the lumbering Alaskan. He meets Buck Weaver, as clever and tough an opponent as anyone can encounter on the pad. However, reports have it that the Buckeye is in splendid condition and he'll be hard to handle. He can dish out plenty.

In the preliminary event Hugo "Whiskers" Adams will make his farewell bow to an Edmonton audience in a bout with Jack Jackson. Hughie will be leaving shortly for Texas and California, where he has matches lined up with some of the best in the game. However, he may be back in Alberta grappling grounds next spring.

With these three bouts on the card, Friday promises to be an evening chuck full of sizzling wrestling action.

Maurice DeBleek will probably be refereeing the bouts.

Debunker

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph.D.

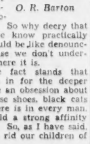

The round opening in the center of the eye (called the pupil) is really not black at all; it appears black by absolutely without color. The reason it looks black is that you look through it into the dark chamber of the eye. It is just looking into a dark room through an open door—the doorway is not black, neither is the pupil of the eye. The eye is like a camera, and the pupil is the shutter that opens into the camera. A round muscle, the iris, surrounds the pupil and controls it to regulate the amount of light entering the eye.

Your Children -

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

It is very difficult to rid the child of superstition of those who go stoutly deny that they have any truck with omens and charms nearly always hold belief in signs. And if they also deride the "hunch" or "lucky streak," talking about thought waves and such.

When we get into the latter realm, it is hardly right to call it superstition. Only this subject whole libraries have been written. I myself, like most people of philosophical turn, know that the mind is capable of mysterious visories. So why deery that about which we know practically nothing? It would be like denouncing radio because we don't understand it. But there it is.

However, the fact stands that whether we go in for the deeper sciences or have an obsession about cleverly shod horse shoes, black cats and ladders, there is in every man, woman and child a strong affinity for superstition. So, as I have said, it is not easy to rid our children of it.

O. R. Barton

BECOME PSYCHIC SLAVES

The intelligent thing to do is to frankly tell them that there is nothing in mere things. The umbrella raised in the house, crossing fingers to ward off disaster, carrying a lucky piece or wearing a certain hat have no more power than a drink of water. What they do is to make a person feel more confident, and very often more discouraged, as in the case of the ladder or black cat. And accent this that the result of such beliefs works against the person's happiness nine times out of ten, and let's get busy and stop sowardly that he gets to depend frantically on every little thing he sees. When this happens he is a slave of the worst kind. He won't enjoy anything he does but will be forever looking forward to that awful thing the ladder says will happen or the innocent black cat picked out for him when he crossed the road. His whole life will be miserable.

Tell him that the secret of his confidence when he feels that lucky monkey, or horse or coin in his pocket, is in his own mind. He can use his mind quite as well without it. He can say to himself "I am going to be able to win in this race, because I think so. Because I will help well—every one other mistakes.

They say the greater the man, the more mistakes he has made. Active people always are making them. But no charm will help him out. If he has courage to stand disappointments and his own blunders and doesn't brood too much, and can pick himself up and go right at it again, that's the swellest lucky piece he can carry. Kindness, courage, self-confidence. These are the fetishes of success.

TO ESTABLISH HANDICRAFTS CENTRE HERE

W. R. Cook, Y.M.C.A. National Council Official, Visiting Edmonton

In the hope of establishing a centre for training leaders in handicrafts, folk dancing and appreciation in various arts, W. R. Cook, secretary for the recreational service of the National Council of the Y.M.C.A., whose headquarters are at Toronto, arrived in Edmonton on Wednesday for a one-day visit.

SKILLED IN HANDICRAFTS

Mr. Cook is accompanied by his wife, who is skilled in handicrafts such as weaving, and jewelry work, and together they will confer with various leaders, ministers, service club executives, teachers and voluntary workers, for the purpose of organizing a preliminary unit.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook will return to Edmonton during the week of Nov. 23 to attend sessions of the adult education institute to be established in the Y.M.C.A.

"Outstanding problem of young people since the depression has been the use of leisure time when monetary resources failed," said Mr. Cook.

TODAY'S PROBLEM

"Moving pictures may be one form of entertainment," he said, "but they should not be the sole form of anyone's recreation. The problem today is to teach people to find sources of entertainment within themselves, by teaching them to make things and to appreciate more arts and crafts."

Mrs. Cook will give demonstrations of a new portable type of loom that is less cumbersome than old types and more easily threaded.

FLIERS RACING NORTHERN ICE

Spending the night at Athabasca, when snow, bad visibility and low ceiling forced him down, Pilot Con Farrell arrived in Edmonton early Wednesday with five passengers and two tons of freight.

Passengers were R. J. Sampson, E. M. Walter, Miss K. Burley, Albert Harrison and Fred Grover.

Pilot Matt Berry returned to the city Tuesday from Fairchild with Ralph Wilson of the Hudson's Bay Mackenzie River Transport as passenger and a full load of freight and express.

Pilot Rudy Heuss returned to Fort Smith from Aklavik early Tuesday on the last flight of the season, clearing northbound mail.

Canadian Airways on Wednesday removed both Fairchild XE and Junkers RI planes from the world air service. The former will be put on wheels and flown to the Edmonton airport for the between-season overhaul.

The curious malady that develops in steel under pressure is known to engineers as "fatigue failure." X-ray plates have been made recently showing exactly what takes place inside the steel. These show that the grains, of which steel is formed, break up into much smaller grains, thus weakening the structure.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATE and CAROLINE MEED live on a farm, Meed Meadows, with their lovable, indolent grandfather, MAJOR SAM MEED, and two old Negro servants, ALTHY and ZEKE. Kate is engaged to handsome MORGAN PRENTISS, who neglects her for EVE ELWELL, beautiful and wealthy.

Major Meed, addicted to drink, loses Meed Meadows to JEFF HOWARD, bitter young mountaineer who owns coal lands. Kate encounters Jeff and is rude to him. He responds with insolence, though drawn to her.

The Meeds move to a tenant house nearby. The girls learn that the Meed family buried a valuable tea service on their land during the Civil War. Kate broods over this news, trying to figure out where the silver is buried. She hopes to recover it and sell it, and persuades Zeke and Althy to accompany her on a dark night to Meed Meadows.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XV

IN ORDER not to arouse her sister's suspicions Kate went back to her room, undressed and went to bed. When Caroline came upstairs later she found her there, apparently drowsy with sleep.

Kate mumbled faintly, "Too bad for you, Honey. My week next the window—" They took turns weekly sleeping in the more comfortably placed bed. Actually Kate would have been happy for Caroline (who looked pale and lifeless from the damp heat) to have the place by the window tonight, yet she dared not risk it. Much better, she decided, for Caroline to sleep across the room where sounds from "the expedition" would not reach her.

Kate lay still and tense until Caroline's regular breathing told her she slept. Then she got stealthily from bed, dressed herself in dark clothes and tennis shoes and crept downstairs.

When she reached the quarters of Zeke and Althy she found them ready and waiting. Together they went to the barn lot. She looked to see if Zeke had carried out her orders. Yes, Dobbin was hitched to the "spring wagon." On the wagon floor was the pick, two spades and some burlap sacking in which to wrap the silver, when they had found it. Kate took her seat on the sacking and motioned Zeke and Althy to the driver's seat.

No mishap accompanied the departure. They went by way of the pasture gate. Kate closing it silently behind them. They followed the Mount Hebron pike for a mile, then took the crossroad that led to the State Pike. As they were about to make this turn a motor car rushed past them causing Kate to realize her recklessness in insisting that they carry no lighted lanterns.

This narrow escape seemed to rob Zeke of his courage, to bring him to his senses. He was all for turning around and going home while there was yet time for caution.

"Dis here business," he announced mournfully, "is bad! It's right sneaky, an' risky, too. Ain't no good comin' of it!"

Althy, always the more adventurous of the two, gave him a resounding slap on the cheek nearest her. "You give me dem lines," she snorted, "I'm your's 'fraid of yoah shadow, me an' Miss Kate can go on by ourselves."

The abuse had the desired effect. Zeke put Dobbin into as brisk a walk as the darkness allowed. A growing excitement gripped them all, and, as they drew near to Meed Meadows, Kate was actually aware of her heart pounding at her ribs.

Hurry!" she whispered as Zeke dallied with the tying of the horse in the woodland avenue. "Hurry! Let's get at it!"

The night seemed no longer dark. The fragment of a new moon was showing itself. Their eyes could distinguish outlines plainly.

They kept to the shadows. Only at one place was there a great length of moon-lit space that must be traversed. This was the stretch that led them to the oak tree near the porch.

"Now?" whispered Kate. She went to the west of the tree, which was the side farthest from the house. She looked up at the outstretched limbs and with her eyes she measured its height, calculated its shadows on the ground. She knelt at a certain point and pointed to the earth, "Dig here!" she said.

Zeke obeyed. The digging was almost soundless. Recent rains had softened the earth until the pick's contact with the ground was only a muffled thud.

Kate looked at the great square house with its fluted columns and dark windows. Its loneliness smote her. Never before had she thought of Meed Meadow being lonely for them, as they were lonely for it. Now she sensed this strange thing—the loneliness of a house that has lost its friends.

Thud. Thud. Zeke's pick in the soft black earth. As he paused to rest, Althy would lift out the loosened dirt with her spade. Presently Kate said, "You stand guard, Althy, and let me shovel dirt!" She felt that she must use not just her wits against the hated creature who lay sleeping behind those walls but all her strength as well.

After a while a sort of security settled upon them. All three worked and no one bothered to stand guard. When they grew unbearably weary they rested. Then they commenced again.

How long now had the dull sound of Zeke's pick been throbbing against their ears? For hours surely. The trench was almost as deep as they were tall. . . .

"Deep enough!" Kate whispered to Zeke. The premonition of failure was mingling with her physical weariness. She climbed out of the hole and sat on the ground and mused fiercely:

"On an August morning the shade would've been just where we've dug. Toward noon it would have been closer to the trunk. But we can't go closer . . . roots . . . Pompey would've avoided the roots . . . We've dug in the right place, I tell you! Why isn't it there?"

By now both Althy and Zeke took it for granted that Kate knew the silver to be there. They themselves visualized it lying, tumbled and tarnished, quite near. Zeke struck gently, alert for the ringing sound of metal striking metal, the sound that forever eluded them.

"We must widen the ditch," said Kate, like a tired oracle.

They labored on. It was increasingly difficult to raise the dirt the pick loosened, yet they somehow managed. They developed a sort of tempo, so that their movements did not interfere or conflict. They succeeded, between them, in digging a monstrously large hole—a hole as deep as a man is tall and as wide as the shadow on the oak tree.

Finally it was Kate who said despairingly, "It's not here!" She climbed out of the ditch and the others followed her. Their faith in this wild venture could not live beyond the faith that had kindled it.

Zeke, looking at the piles of dirt that loomed around them, said wearily, "We got to put de dirt back, Miss Kate!"

"Bosh!" Kate answered. "We'll do nothing of the kind." Her voice, like Zeke's, had risen. "Let him shovel it back himself. That's all he has to do—except sleep—"

It was then that the discharge of a shotgun shattered the darkness. "Mercy on us!" Althy moaned. "Don't shoot no more! Us is goin'!"

They went. Skirting the lawn. Following the fence. Stumbling down the avenue to where Dobbin stood hitched to a tree. Zeke had dragged with him the pick and one spade. Althy was leading Kate, who seemed dazed and strangely submissive. Zeke hastily untied Dobbin and they got into the wagon, the two servants on the driver's seat, Kate on the floor amid the burlap bags. Napoleon's army returning from Moscow could not have suggested more complete defeat.

When they reached home they turned in at the pasture gate and drove into the stable. As Kate got out, she moaned a little. Her right hand, with which she had been gripping her left shoulder, was damp and sticky with a substance that shone red in the lantern light.

"Lawd!" said Althy again. "Where dat blood come from?" She seized the lantern. Zeke had lit and held it nearer to the quiet girl.

"From my shoulder," Kate said in an odd voice. "Buckshot. He aimed too close to be funny."

Zeke and Althy conferred in low words. Kate heard the words, "better call Major Sam—"

"You'll not call Gran'dad!" she declared violently. "Haven't we had trouble enough for one night? Zeke, you unhitch, Althy can help me in the kitchen." She ran indoors and Althy followed her.

Althy tremblingly made a fire and put water on to boil. Then she cut the sleeve from Kate's dress and somehow got her out of it.

It was only a flesh wound in which the shot had not lodged, but it was made ugly by the matted blood around it. The shot had ploughed through the flesh of the left shoulder in that inexplicable way that gunfire so often misses a vital area.

They boiled rags and swabbed the wound. Then Kate gritted her teeth while Althy poured iodine into it. They applied a crude surgical pad, fastened on with adhesive tape.

Kate crept up to bed and covered her head with the sheet while she cried softly and dejectedly. Her bubble had burst, leaving her aching and hopeless in a world without promise. The fierce pain in her shoulder was no worse than the pain in her heart. All their troubles, she had thought, would come right when she had found the silver. Caroline could have her year at college; their poverty would be relieved; she herself would be a sort of story-book heroine who had accomplished something daring and clever for the sake of her family. Morgan would hear of it, she had dreamed, and would take her in his arms and tell her how wonderful she was. . . .

But she had failed. She had been routed by the mountaineer. It was all Jeff Howard's fault. Everything was Jeff Howard's fault.

She slept fitfully and wakened in broad daylight to find Caroline bending over her anxiously.

Caroline said, "You've been restless, Kate! I think you've been out of your head. Or else talking in your sleep."
